Dysart concerned about MNR plans for lake closing

Dysart et al councillors are concerned that a Ministry of Natural Resources proposal to close Drag Lake to winter fishing may put additional pressure on nearby lakes that are already heavily exploited.

At a meeting Monday, council decided it will ask an MNR representative to discuss the issue at council's next session.

Reduced catch limits rather than complete closure was suggested by councillor Glen Hodgson as one solution to the problem.

Reeve Murray Fearrey said he is "not opposed to what they're trying to do. But to save one lake you don't ruin another."

Council's particular concern appeared to be the Miskwabi Lake system, which, like Drag Lake, is noted for lake trout fishery, and which already is heavily fished in the winter months not only by cottagers but by transient anglers who reach the area on snowmobiles.

This view has also been expressed by Miskwabi Cottagers Association president Jerry Strickland in a letter to the MNR biologist Henk Reitseveld, a copy of which was read at council on Monday.

Echo to be closed on Thanksgiving day

The Haliburton County Echo will appear one day later than usual next week because of the Thanksgiving holiday. Subscriber mailing and newsdealer distribution will take place on Thursday, rather than Wednesday for next week's issue.

The newspaper office will be closed on Monday, October 14. Our deadline for news, classifieds and display advertising next week will be Tuesday at 5 p.m., rather than Monday.

May we take this opportunity to wish all our readers a safe and enjoyable holiday weekend.

Lions club receives charter

The newest service club in Haliburton County has received its official charter. The Minden Lions Club was presented with the document by deputy district governor Charles Golden at a charter night dinner Saturday night at the Minden arena.

About 200 guests were on hand to share in the occasion, which included the presentation of charter certificates to members and a gong, gavel, flags and other official items to club president Robert McNab.

On hand for the event were representatives of more than a dozen Lions clubs throughout the district, members of other service clubs, and politicians, including Ontario tourism minister John Eakins.

In a brief address, Eakins said the fact that the Lions are a worldwide organization presents "a great opportunity for international understanding", and a means to "promote peace in the world."

"Lions do tremendous work" the tourism minister said, praising the spirit of volunteerism which is so important to small communities.

Eakins then presented club president McNab with a provincial flag to hang at meetings.

MP Bill Scott also attended the dinner and expressed congratulations to the club. He presented McNab with a picture of the Queen.

Expressions of goodwill also came from representatives of other community service clubs.

Minden councillor Gary Kenney presented a plaque to the club president on behalf of the municipality.

In his response to the presentations, McNab said he looks forward to the day when the club marks its 50th anniversary of service to the community.

Charter members of the new club, not all of whom were present at the dinner and dance, include Wally Bunn, Joe Cannon, Dr. Allan Davidson, Frank Dunsford, Gary Foster, Jack Hewson, Bill Hirstwood, Dr. Anthony Holliday-Rhodes, Jim Hamilton, Harold Harding, Cliff Lacey, Ross Lindsay, Milton Loucks, Robert Mann, Robert McNab, Joe Nicholson, Allan Rice, Paul Reng, Czeslaw Reng, John Stainton, Howard Scott, Leon Wright and Steven Zeller.

Nine area trustees to seek re-election

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

Of the 15 present board of education trustees, nine have decided to run again.

Anson, Hindon and Minden will find itself with no representatives from the last board because Brian Sisson and Bonnie-Lee Berry have decided not to run again. All board members who have decided not to run again say their main reason is a lack of available time to devote to the board.

The people of Stanhope are losing one of their representatives but changes approved by county council have shifted one of Stanhope's seats to Dysart. Dorothy Kinsman has decided not to run again but LeRoy Eager will seek a fourth term.

The separate school trustee, Kelly Crick will not seek re-election, and the present chairman of the board, Paul Wilson, says he's almost certain his name won't be on the ballot.

Glamorgan trustee Julie Hunter has moved away from the area.

Those trustees who have decided to run for another term all cite preserving the high level of education as their main priority.

Another concern shared by the trustees is a dwindling budget to cover spiralling costs.

"I'm interested in seeing how the dollars are being spent and if they can be spent locally," said one of the three Dysart trustees running again, Lynn Craigmyle. A trustee since 1983, Craigmyle sees his job as one way of giving something back to the community.

In those two years, he has been concerned about program cuts, many of them which came about when the government began telling boards what programs they had to offer. One thing he would like added to the budget though, is money to be spent on putting seatbelts on school buses.

He would like others to express their concerns to him so he can be more effective at representing everyone's needs. "I certainly encourage an open-door policy with the board."

Craigmyle's views on watching the budget closely are shared by Len Salvatori, a trustee for 16 years.

"We're taking over more responsibility and we're not getting the grants from the government," he said. Because some of the property values in the area are high, the board has gotten a high assessment and is expected to recover most of its cost through land taxes, he says. "It puts more pressure on the people."

Costs, quality are main issues

The cottagers are the board's "lifeline", he says, with the money they contribute to education through property taxes.

One of Salvatori's concerns is the cost of special education. He says he believes in helping those children with special needs but wishes the government would provide higher grants to cover the high costs.

Nancy Stinson, also running in Dysart, has no specific concerns. Different problems arise each month but most of them originate at the ministry level so a good trustee must be able to deal with things as they are brought up at meetings, she says.

She shares the same reservations as much of the public over Bill 82 and separate school funding, and brings seven years experience to the board. "I'm a concerned parent and I know what I'm after for my kids," she said.

Canada geese linger despite frost in the air

A small flock of Canada geese has been living on Head Lake in Haliburton for the past three months, giving a good deal of pleasure to people who enjoy the sight of these beautiful birds. Since they are being fed grain by local residents, they may stay for the winter. But the urge to migrate may yet take over on some particularly frosty morning.

Pickets man the lines, Martin strike continues

The atmosphere on the picket lines at G.W. Martin's Harcourt mill is "pretty good," said the union press agent for the striking members of Local 1200 of the International Woodworkers of America.

About eight men are stationed at each of the two picket lines, one at the mill's garage and the other at Mason's Hill, says Barry Hendry, but the road between the two points has been closed by the lumber yard. The union executive is still able to travel from one picket to the other.

Non-union workers at the company are being let through the lines. "They slow down and go by and we don't stop them," Hendry said. Some trucks are going in but they are not for transport.

The official vote of whether to reject the contract offer was taken out on the picket lines during the past week and Hendry said 76 voted in favour of the rejection while four voted against it. There are 120 members of the union but Hendry said some have chosen not to picket and have found temporary employment to tide them over.

A single man makes $40 a week for picketing two eight-hour shifts, a married man makes $50 and those with dependents earn $2.50 per dependent to a maximum of $10.

"We're committed to the position of the strike and the vote pretty well affirms that," he said, adding that the union is willing to get back to the negotiation table.

Asked about the strike, a representative of Martin Lumber said, "there's nothing to say at this moment."

This Saturday a garage sale and raffle are being held by the union in order to raise money for the health and welfare fund. Hendry did not know at press time exactly where it was being held in Wilberforce and added that people have already been making donations of money or food in support of the strikers.

Police News

General Occurrences

During the period of September 30 to October 6, personnel at Minden Detachment investigated the following occurrences: nine motor vehicle accidents in which three persons were injured, and 37 general occurrences.

Disturbance

On Sunday morning, October 6, at 1:20 a.m., an altercation between two groups of people broke out in the parking lot of PineStone Inn in Dysart Township. As a result, when one group of three persons attempted to leave the scene in their car, the vehicle struck a person in the other group. Dwight Sisson, age 25, of West Guilford, received a broken ankle and was taken by ambulance to the Haliburton Hospital. After this incident, the three occupants of the vehicle were again involved in a dispute and all received facial and other injuries including one broken nose. The driver was Darrell Lindsay, age 28, of Stouffville, and his passengers were Randy Lindsay, age 20, of Irondale and Dave Bower, age 18, of Stouffville. The incident is currently under investigation by PC Brad Burkholder.

Accidents

On Saturday, October 5 at 1:30 a.m. on Hwy. 121 at the east end of Haliburton, Steven Brown, age 20, of Monmouth Township, was eastbound in a pickup when he missed the curve, drove across the westbound lane into the ditch and rolled over. There was $3,000 damage. He suffered a minor injury and was charged with careless driving.

On Sunday, October 6 at 2:15 a.m. on Hwy. 118 near Bobcaygeon Rd. in Hindon Township John White, age 22, of Minden Township, swerved his 1983 Datsun pickup to miss a deer. The vehicle crossed the highway into a ditch where it struck a rock-cut. Damage was estimated at $8,000. He received a minor injury.

On Monday, October 7 at 3:30 a.m. on Hwy. 35, five km south of Minden, William Hutchings, age 16, of Stanhope Township, was driving a Ford sedan when he apparently fell asleep. The northbound car drove across the southbound lane on a curve, entered the west ditch, struck a rock-cut and rolled over. Vehicle damage was $4,000. The driver and his passengers, John Cooper, age 15, of West Guilford, and David McKay, age 16, of Haliburton, were treated for injuries at Minden Hospital, then released.

Energy improvement loans available

Loans of up to $10,000 are now available for home energy improvements under a new program sponsored by Ontario Hydro and municipal utilities and administered exclusively by the Royal Bank of Canada.

The financing program for homeowners is called the EnerMark Loan Plan. The Royal Bank will administer the loans, ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 per home and payable over one to five years.

'Liming' is not the long-term solution to acid rain, researcher

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

People who want to lime the lakes to help combat acid rain might win the immediate battle but would lose the long-term war, said the public relations co-ordinator of the Dorset Research Centre for acid rain.

"It's not the solution and that's why we really don't want people to do it," said Janet Stahle-Fraser at the Rails' End Gallery. "It's going to cover the problem up and we're not going to see the effects of the acidification."

Putting lime in lakes that can be potentially damaged by high acid levels has been regarded as the way to lower the pH -- or acid level -- of the lake. The lime acts as a base and reduces the level of acid in the lake. Some lakes have natural lime bottoms but most lakes in this area don't.

"We really don't know what liming is going to do," she says. "A lime base can neutralize the acid but as soon as it's used up you'll see a dramatic drop." The lower the pH, the more acidic is the lake.

This may be one reason for a sudden increase in a lake's acidification level and another may be a sudden spring thaw.

"What we've found is that the critical time of the year is during spring runoff," Stahle-Fraser said. Several layers of snow, with different levels of acidification, melt all at once, instantly exposing the lake to higher acid levels. "Depending on how fast it melts and the year, some fish eggs could be wiped out for a full year."

While insects are not particularly susceptible to acid rain, a change in the eco-system has had disastrous results with fish. Stahle-Fraser said researchers have discovered that acid rain indirectly affects the soil, mobilizing the metals, which then leach out of the bedrock. As a result, higher aluminum levels have been found in lakes, causing fish to suffocate when a layer builds around their gills.

On land, the acid rain is causing the leaching of minerals such as calcium and magnesium and "we've noticed a die-back in the feeding of tree roots."

"In the next year we're going to be looking at PCB's and mercury levels," she says, adding they could be forming because of air pollution.

Hesitant to lay blame of today's pollution problems on any one source, she said, "we're not lily white but they have determined that the amount we send down to the United States isn't nearly as much as they send us." She recommends setting up international laws to protect our natural resources because "it's a political problem that affects the economy."

Using the case of the Sudbury Super Stack, she said that before it was built, the pollution stayed in the area, but now, because the smoke reaches different air currents, the problem is spread all over.

Meanwhile, researchers at Dorset are carefully monitoring all the lakes in the area, ascertaining the levels of acidification and the potential risks.

"It has been said by some American scientists that acidification is natural," she said. "To show proof we have to show a steady decline. We don't have the long-term data but what we have determined is that over a short period of time there are detrimental effects."

Many people are beginning to feel frustrated in their attempts to lower the emissions of chemicals like sulfur dioxide, but Stahle-Fraser says they should not give up the battle.

"It's because of public opinion that we've been able to get our money for research. If the public doesn't care, the government doesn't care."

Stahle-Fraser's talk was part of a lecture series sponsored by the gallery.

Anson, Hindon and Minden council consider seniors complex

At the most recent meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden council, the following matters were considered:

Patricia White, Henry Gotfryd and Victor Heinrichs were present to discuss the proposed retirement development on part of Lot 3, Concession A, in the Township of Minden. A written proposal was presented to council and explained to council by Gotfryd and Heinrichs.

They requested that council set up a board of directors who would pursue government licensing for the chronic and extended care units. They felt that this board would continue to be a liaison group with the tenants and management after the building was erected. They suggested that the board should have from five to seven members.

A zoning change would be required and the clerk was directed to send a zoning change application to Gotfryd.

Helen Johnson, member of the District Health Council, was to be referred to Gotfryd in order that her committee would be involved in this development as well.

Robert Lehman Planning Consultants Ltd. were hired as consultants to represent the Township as per a proposal of August 19, 1985, at a cost of $2,000 to $3,000.

NOMINATIONS TOWNSHIP OF MONMOUTH

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that nominations may be filed in the office of the clerk between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, October 17, 1985 and Friday, October 18th, 1985 and between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on Monday, October 21, 1985.

THE OFFICE FOR which persons may be nominated are:

REEVE - 1 to be elected
DEPUTY REEVE - 1 to be elected
COUNCILLOR - 3 to be elected
SCHOOL BOARD TRUSTEE - 1 to be elected

Where the number of candidates is not sufficient to fill the number of vacancies to which candidates may be elected, additional nominations for the remaining vacancies may be filed in the office of the clerk on Wednesday, October 23, 1985 between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

likes to handle problems the same way as Stinson -- one step at a time. "There's lots of things that come up," says the 16-year veteran with the Haliburton board. He has been involved with school boards for 30 years but not all at one place.

"Our main concern is the cost and quality of education," he says. "We try to get the best possible teachers and keep our standards up."

He says he brings to the board "a good knowledge of the system and the Education Act, and a good rapport with staff and other boards."

One of LeRoy Eager's pet peeves is the fact that Haliburton children are sometimes educated by other boards, especially Muskoka.

"We've got to turn around in the next few years," says Stanhope's trustee since 1977. "Our enrollment is declining and we're spending a lot of money to educate kids outside the county."

He has found the board of education to be "a very complex body of people" which takes new trustees a full year to understand. His eight years of experience will help him tackle any new problems that arise, he says. "I've been on the board for eight years and I'm not just going to walk away."

One of the things Linda Mumford would like to see changed is the relationship between the school board and the various councils. "There needs to be more co-operation between the board of education and the councillors," says the trustee for Cardiff. "We're both working for the people and if we're at odds it doesn't help the public."

Like her fellow board member, Lynn Craigmyle, Mumford wants people to feel free to express their concerns and when something does happen they should be told.

"I like to be up front," says Mumford, a three year veteran. "Everything the public wants to know, we should tell them."

If re-elected, she would continue to work hard for the people who elected her, she says. "I've never missed a meeting."

Postmaster heads national union

Haliburton Postmaster Lloyd Johnson has stepped down from his local duties to become national president of the rural post office union.

Johnson, who has been active in the union's affairs for several years, was appointed to the presidency at a national convention in Calgary two weeks ago.

Assistant Postmaster Dorelle Baker has taken over the postmaster position temporarily, but there has been no indication so far of when or if the position will be opened to the competition procedure usual in civil service positions.

Johnson's appointment as national president of the union is for a two year term. He will be based in Ottawa.

"Education has always been an interest with me since day one," says Lutterworth's Cheryl Murdoch. A former teacher, she says working on the board is "a challenge."

Our biggest problem is the grant money is not keeping pace with the changes," she says. Next is getting all those children to school.

"Transportation is a major problem since almost 100 per cent of the children are bused and that creates a problem." In the seven years since she's been elected, she has been the chairman of the transportation committee and chairman of the salary committee.

Snowdon's George Simmons is worried that with all the emphasis being placed on children with special needs, those who have no problems are being ignored.

"They want to cater to the weaknesses of the children instead of the strengths," says the trustee of the past three years. "They always want to know what's wrong. We're forgetting about the average student."

The Haliburton board's problem with the new programs is made even worse because it is so small. "We're being pushed away for the grant money," he says.

Two other concerns involve the distance small children have to travel to get to school and some of the confusion the metric system has created.

"Some kids in kindergarten leave home at 7:40 and get home at five. It's hard on them. For a small board we've got to give in a little."

Metric is causing confusion because while the kids use only metric at school, at home their older relatives are still using imperial.

"In this county the students relate more with their grandparents so when they don't learn imperial they're going to lose out in the relationship."

Simmons sees himself as a good representative who is dedicated and likes to get involved. All the money he earns as a trustee goes back into the system, he says. Some of the money goes towards his travelling costs while the rest he has used to set up scholarships.

In Dorset, David Villard wants to be elected again so he can do his part in making the system run efficiently and with the highest standards.

"We have a very good educational system. I want to do my best to make it better," he says. "My main concern is the children and overall it's that we provide a good education."

The school board does not have that much control, he says, since mill rates are fixed and "the squeeze has been put on the flow of money" but his attitude is that "you try to do as much with less."

Villard has been on the board since 1982 and as a newcomer to the area, says he can add a bit of outside flavour. As well, "I probably don't look at myself as a sheep who goes along with everyone else."

It is unknown at this time who else is going to run.

These eleven men are among the 23 people who have become charter members of the newly formed Minden Lions Club. Club president Robert McNab, second from left in the front row, has high hopes for the organization, which will begin regular meetings soon.

Producers hear of future

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

Some changes will have to be made in the maple syrup industry if producers want to remain competitive in the market place, a maple syrup specialist with the Ministry of Agriculture said this weekend at the producers' annual meeting in Haliburton.

"You're certainly going to see more emphasis on energy saving technology, good management of sugar bushes and more effort made in good marketing," said John Butler during a tour of the Iron Kettle Maple Products near Ingoldsby on Saturday.

The annual meeting is the perfect time to talk about these changes, he says, as it provides an opportunity to exchange ideas and learn of new and different ways of doing things.

"The main advantage is to bring producers together and listen to speakers. As important is just to bring them together to exchange ideas."

The guest speakers who attended Friday's business meeting did provide a well-researched look at such problems as Gypsy Moth infestation and maple decline. The entire afternoon was devoted to the various slide shows and question and answer periods. Many concerns were expressed and dealt with.

Over the past few years, the number of maple trees has declined steadily, though it is not that great a problem in Haliburton. Some theories attribute it to excessive planting while others say acid rain is responsible.

"There could be many factors," says Butler. "Acid rain has received a lot of publicity and others not being able to tell, are blaming the decline on it. All the research hasn't been able to say acid rain is the only cause. There are so many other potential causes as well."

The gypsy moth problem is a real one. "They are definitely spreading and will continue to do so," Butler says and producers must take steps to eliminate them.

Producing maple syrup hasn't really changed over the years. The sap, which is 95 per cent water, is gathered from the trees and evaporated into syrup through a process of various heaters and strainers. Whereas before, the sap was collected in buckets and picked up individually, today, a runway of tubes brings the sap directly into the storage tanks.

One tree may produce 10 gallons of sap and this will be boiled down to make one litre of syrup. The Iron Kettle is the biggest maple farm in this area and has 8,000 tapped trees.

Louise Berry, who runs the farm along with her husband and family, was asked about the success of the serve-yourself booth at the end of the laneway into the farm.

She says business "is very good" and people are usually quite honest about leaving the right amount of money.

Questions also arose about the production process. The building was built in 1968 and some of the machines were patented by Charles Tyler, another local maple producer.

The pipeline runs the sap into a large tank with milk vacuum pumps that will trigger electronic devices when the tank is filled. It then automatically pumps the sap into a 1500 gallon storage tank. The heaters in the upstairs of the building heat the sap to the temperature required for evaporation. Boiled until it is almost a syrup, the liquid is then strained and pumped to the finishing plants, which is run by gas fires. A second straining is done and then the finished syrup goes into drums or small containers. The syrup does not need to be aided by human hands until the final packaging stage.

"A sugar camp can be easily computerized to do everything," said Tyler with a smile.

After visiting the Berrys' operation, the group of maple producers proceeded to the Maple Sands Resort which has 1,000 trees on tap.

This is the second time the annual meeting has been held in Haliburton. Back in 1968, Wallace Crofts, Louise Berry's father, was president and brought the first meeting to Wig-a-Mog Inn.

Manager enthusiastic about annual meeting

The highlight of this year's annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be the guest appearance by the Ontario Minister of Tourism, says Shirley Rapson.

"I'm excited about the fact that our tourism minister will be here and we can exchange ideas with him," she says of John Eakins' presence at the meeting being held October 18 at the PineStone Inn. Eakins has indicated that he will give a short speech about what people in this area must do to attract more tourist dollars and will also spend time answering any questions from the audience.

Rapson wants people who have not previously been associated with the chamber to "come and hear what it's all about."

Tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce office or from board members.

Bone surgery to continue at Ross M.H.

Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay will continue offering orthopaedic services to the community to the best of its financial ability, board chairman Valmay Barkey has announced.

However, faced with a remaining budgeted operating deficit of $574,000 in Ministry funding, she said "the board also approved a number of measures recommended by the department of surgery, the medical staff's medical advisory committee and the board's management and finance committees to help reduce the deficit."

Hospital administrator Eric Freeborn estimated that the recommendation approved by the board will reduce the annual cost of operating the Department of Surgery by about $64,000 through the implementation of three measures -- the restriction of elective (non-emergency) orthopaedic surgery to one day a week (emergency orthopaedic surgery will continue as needed on a daily basis); reverting to a "stand-by" system, rather than full time staffing of the operating theatres during the evening shift for emergencies; and implementation of a 25 per cent reduction in the budgeted provision for the purchase of prosthetic devices.

The administrator also noted that "a further cost containment measure was taken during the preparation of the 1985/86 budget, whereby other hospital departmental requests totalling $420,000 for increased staffing were denied, resulting in the freezing of paid hours of work in all departments at the previous year's levels."

Dr. P.R. Manmohansingh, chairman of the Medical Advisory Committee, said "a study carried out by the medical staff's utilization review committee showed that this new allocation of operating time for elective orthopaedic surgery will permit a more equitable distribution of operating time for all our surgeons, as well as reducing costs."

Manmohansingh said "a check with three hospitals in the region confirmed that their orthopaedic surgeons are restricted to an equivalent of one day a week for elective surgery." "The shortage of beds and the need to ensure equitable access to them among surgeons, was another factor that had to be considered in making the recommendation," he added.

Before making its decision, "the board sought the advice of the Ontario Ministry of Health to determine whether or not the Ministry would have any objection to the hospital implementing the measures proposed by the Medical Advisory Committee, prior to the conclusion of the hospital's current discussions on its budget submission," Barkey said.

The chairman also noted that the Ministry has said the hospital's financial situation will be given high priority in a mid-year review of the second quarter operating statements.

Apathy

Municipal elections across Ontario are a little less than five weeks away and by next week, candidates throughout the 10 local municipalities will begin filing their nomination papers. That will set campaigns in motion and spark a good deal of lively debate over morning coffee in local restaurants, which after all remain a principle forum for community opinion. It should also give a clear indication of whether the grass roots democracy most Canadians are proud of is withering or working well.

At the risk of sounding a sour note before all the facts are in, it appears that not much will change in this election year. There will be far more acclamations than there ought to be, and too many good people will stand aside while other, less capable people, take municipal and school board positions. This has happened in election after election, and the community has always accepted it. Some municipalities flourish because there are strong and wise leaders among those who do run, while other councils merely muddle through, wasting time and taxpayers money in a myriad of ways.

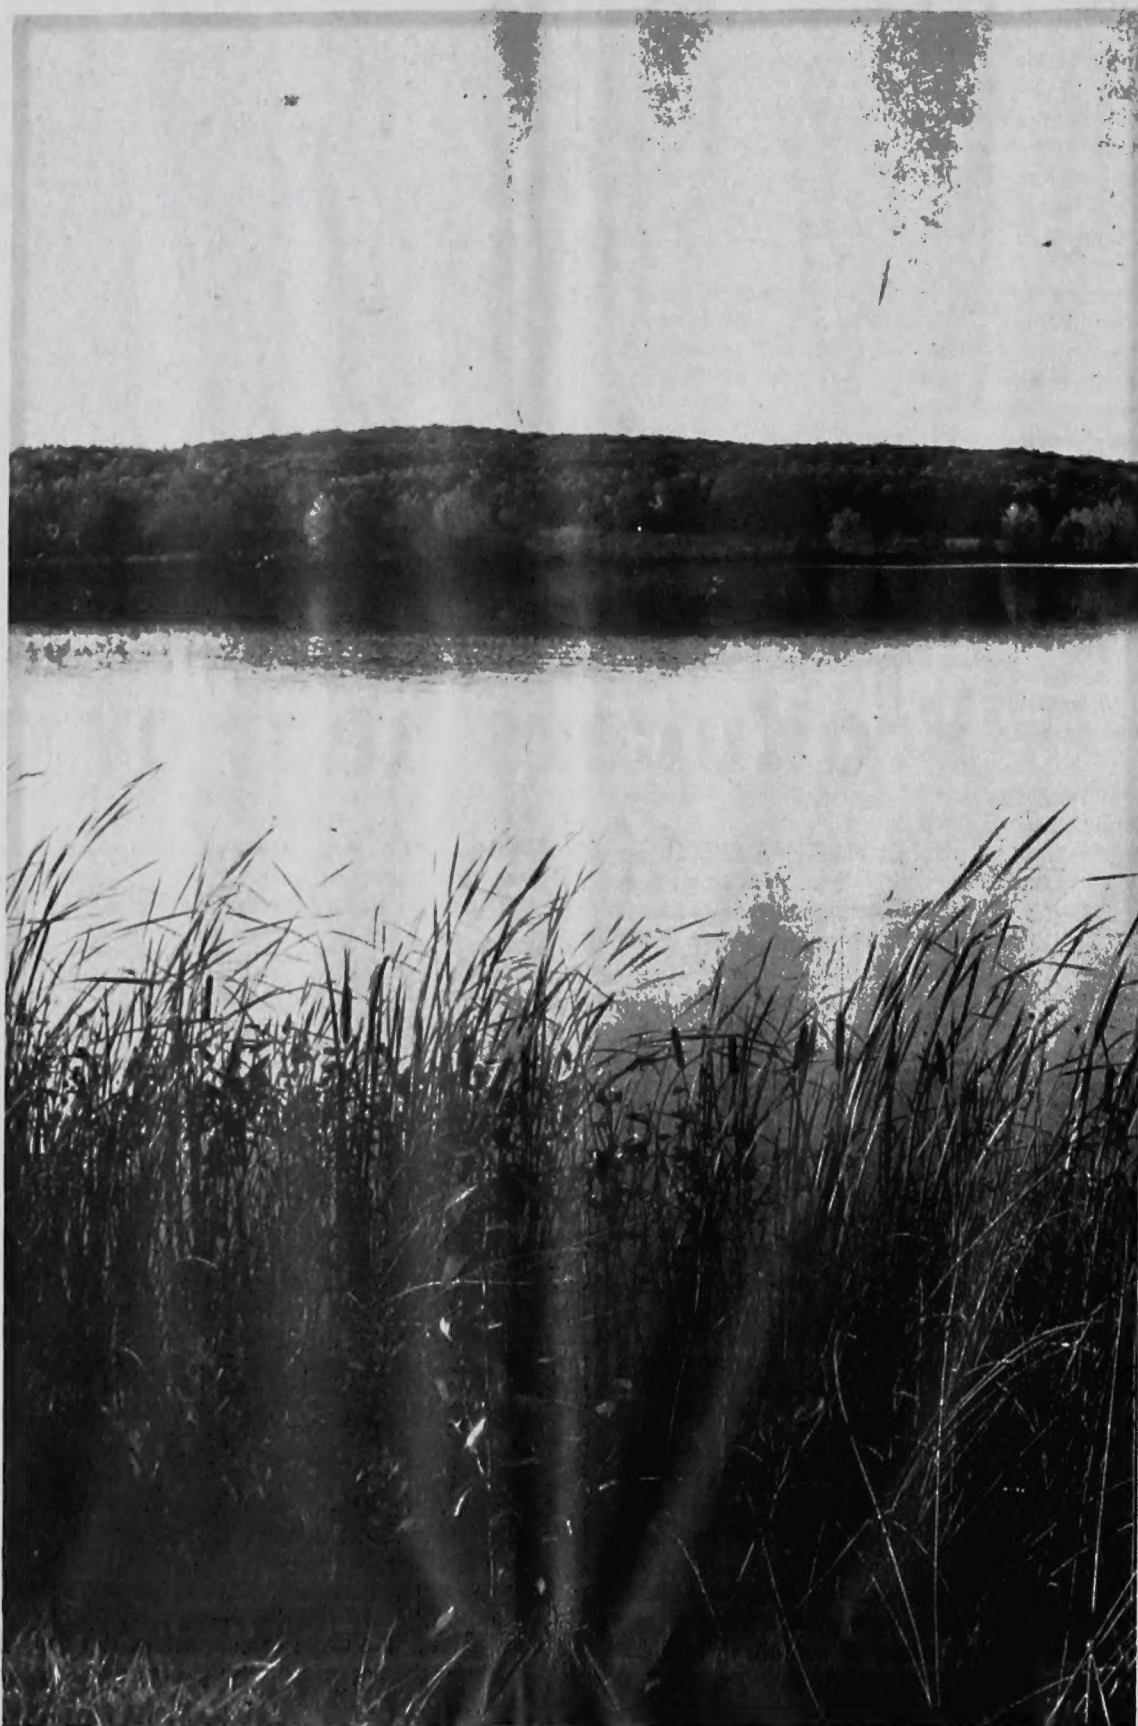

None of this may matter too much to the average citizen, whose priorities are making a living and raising a family. Yet it should matter, because municipal politics are inseparable from the local economy and the social climate that prevails in the community. An indecisive school board or a council bereft of new ideas might not spell disaster, but they could certainly slow down progress and leave a legacy of tension, as recent history has shown.

Why then, do so few of the most competent, best educated and most worldly people in the community contest municipal elections? One answer may be that such people are too busy with their business affairs to spare the substantial amount of time that public office demands. It may also be that they simply have no desire to face the burden of problems that are always heaped on the shoulders of local politicians. But unless more people take an active interest in municipal and school board affairs, and are willing to let their names appear on the ballot, the future of grass roots politics looks increasingly bleak.

Two examples may illustrate the point. The Haliburton County Board of Education is the most important publically elected body in Haliburton County, not only because it handles by far the largest budget - about $8 million - but because education determines the kind of society we create. There are 15 seats on the board, and every one of them should be contested by at least two candidates. That could happen this year, but is hasn't in the recent past. In fact, more than half those seats are likely to be filled without an election at all. Such apathy is disturbing, especially to people who pay close attention to school board affairs and have a good idea which trustees make a positive contribution to the system and which do not.

In the case of Dysart et al council, there are indications that changes may be on the way, but they may not be changes that will please most ratepayers. Reeve Murray Fearrey has not said whether he will run, but he has made no secret of his feeling that the municipality inevitably must find new leadership. If he does step down he will be a very hard man to replace.

Whatever happens in the upcoming municipal election, the outcome will be determined as much by the people who might have run but didn't, as by those who vie for seats.

Few benefit from more alcohol access

To the Editor

To The Editor:

In his letter to the editor of September 4, 1985, G. Standen takes exception to your editorial statement that increasing the availability of alcohol by selling it in grocery stores will lead to more alcohol-related problems.

Scientists at the Addiction Research Foundation have been conducting research on the connection between alcohol availability and problems for many years. Some of the findings are:

- 1) Increases in access to alcohol are likely to facilitate a higher rate of consumption of alcohol, while decreases in access are likely to reduce consumption.
- 2) Increased consumption of alcohol leads to increases in alcohol-related health and social problems.
- 3) The availability of beer and wine in grocery stores would permit easier access to alcohol for juveniles who frequent convenience stores.

Consider these questions: How would young staff respond to aggressive under-age or intoxicated customers (particularly in view of the fact that serving underage or intoxicated customers is a breach of the Liquor Licence Act)? What would happen to underage employees of grocery stores who are not permitted to sell alcohol? Instead of viewing alcohol as a special substance subject to special controls, would people (especially children) start treating it as an ordinary food commodity, like a loaf of bread? Is it really that difficult to get alcohol now?

Very few people would benefit from increased access to alcohol.

Sincerely,
Jerry Weymark,
Counsellor, Haliburton Alcohol and Drug Education Centre, Community Consultant, Peterborough
Centre, Addiction Research Foundation.

HAVE thriving

To The Editor:

On September 21 the H.A.V.E. Committee held its annual meeting. A treasurer's report and a chairman's report were received, an election was held, and the meeting was rounded off by a slide presentation of The Gambia by Clarence McInerney.

Treasurer John Stouffer delivered the most humorous financial statement this writer has ever heard. The Walk for Water has produced over $7,500 in gifts. The committee has also received in bequest $2,500 to go toward the completion of the chapel in Ibrahimpuram.

Chairman Gerry Feltham outlined the year's activities. The pipeline in the Indian Himalayas is proceeding as quickly as possible in view of the extremely heavy rainfall in the area. H.A.V.E. is contributing the polyethylene pipe for this project. Since the meeting we have received word that six drinking water wells have been completed in the Hyderabad area.

Mr. Feltham's report stressed the unique aspects of H.A.V.E.'s contribution to self-help projects in "the Two Thirds World". All money received in donation goes directly to the projects. Costs are absorbed by a special fund that is supported by entrepreneurial efforts and specific contributions from members of the community.

The new members of the executive are as follows: chairman, Clarence McInerney, vice chairmen, Keith Hill and Lon Duncombe; secretary, Dr. Neil Hutchinson; treasurer, John Stouffer; projects officer, Gerry Feltham; promotional officer, Eric Lilius. Other members are: Rev. John James, Mrs. Wendy Gambell, and Mrs. Mildred Hill.

The meeting was treated to an excellent slide presentation of The Gambia (West Africa) by Clarence McInerney. The major portion of this long, narrow semi desert country is badly in need of clean drinking water. Mr. McInerney was in the Gambia to train teachers.

In response to this, the proceeds of the H.A.V.E. Committee's fall concert on November 2 will be directed to establishing school drinking wells in The Gambia. Look for further details in this paper in the coming weeks.

Yours sincerely,
Eric Lilius

Feir play

by Creighton Feir

The Thanksgiving weekend is coming up and many visitors will be in the area to close up their cottages or to view the leaves in all their splendid colours. Each and every year following this, the final holiday weekend before Christmas, I find it a very sad and depressing time as many of us have to say goodbye to so many old and new friends who generally come up in the early spring and stay until Thanksgiving, and then head back to Toronto or to some other centre in Ontario for the winter months. I have had the pleasure of being in this business which gives me the opportunity to meet and to know many people who have cottages here while others I know are visiting with relatives or staying at a cottage resort, hotel or motel. It's very easy to get to know them on a personal basis and I am always fascinated by the interest that they show in local affairs and also the wonderful way that they are involved in the community. Most of them are wonderful people who dream and look forward to the time when they will be coming back into this area and becoming permanent residents. They are certainly welcome and it is the new blood moving into the area with some new and fresh ideas which in the long run will make this a great country.

I have just received my copy of the Haliburton County Home Support Services autumn newsletter. Among the many interesting items I spotted the following. They tell you how to put your name on the map - have a road named after you. Jim Wilkinson has just received this distinction, and what was formerly East Kennis Road has become Wilkinson Road. I also learned after reading the newsletter that Cardiff Meals on Wheels got started on July 15. They were delayed for some time, as it was difficult to get somebody who prepare the meals in that area. However the Craftsman Restaurant (owned by Mr. and Mrs. Nichols) agreed to provide the meals and the clients find them to be quite satisfactory. The first meals were delivered by volunteers Betty Burke with the help of her husband Pat, and Dossie Avison also, with the help of her husband George. They now provide the service for ten homes, according to the need - some every second week, and one home only once a month.

Ross Carver of the Haliburton Highlands Museum at Haliburton was the guest speaker when the Rotary Club of Haliburton held their weekly meeting at the Haliburton United Church last Thursday evening. Prior to the meeting members of the club were treated to a tour of the museum and the grounds at Glebe Park through the courtesy of Mr. Carver.

The Haliburton Minor Hockey Association is into its second week of pre-season hockey drills at the Haliburton arena. Boys from all age groups are being put through their paces by former National Hockey League professional Walt McKechnie. The drills, which have been a great success thanks to Walt and the Association, are over and the minor hockey league schedules will begin around October 15. These drills have proven to be of great benefit to the young hockey players as it helps out with their skating skills and it also gets them into condition for the season ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Nimigon of Haliburton have returned home after visiting with some of their family on Vancouver Island. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bannon attended the Highland Games held recently in Fergus. Mr. John Parish was a business visitor to Toronto last Friday. Dr. and Mrs. McKee spent the weekend at their cottage on Lake Kashagawigamog. Scott Rae of Haliburton will be playing his junior hockey this winter in Huntsville. On Friday night the Huntsville team won a big victory over Parry Sound and Scott picked up two goals and two assists.

The Haliburton United Church board of stewards reports that the building fund loan is now fully paid. The board has greatly appreciated the support of the congregation in this project, as well as keeping up with the normal running of the church. It all goes to show what good can be done when a group all pulls together for a common cause.

The OMHA Beachli Walker Bantams will be playing their first exhibition hockey game when they meet Bancroft at the arena in Haliburton this Friday night, October 11 at 8:30 p.m.

The community was shocked last week when they learned of the death of Noreen Findlay, which occurred at the Peterborough Civic Hospital on Friday, October 4, 1985. Mrs. Findlay, who was in her 56th year, was the loving wife of Bill Findlay. The funeral service was held at the Chapel of the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home in Minden, on Monday. Sincere sympathy goes out to the family at this time.

From all reports, deer are going to be quite plentiful when the deer season opens in November. Several local citizens have told me that they have noticed deer running along the sides of the highways and on the roads in several sections of Haliburton County. Several deer have also been spotted on the highway between Haliburton and Minden. I saw a fawn recently running across the road into the bush in the Gelert area.

What's really fishy about that tuna

The view from here

by Harvey M. Clarke

Did you ever hear or see the word 'tuna' more often in your entire lifetime? Do you ever think you'll be able to eat it again? It was two or three days into the whole mess that I hit the word 'putrid' in one of the stories, and that would have done it for me!

I say 'would have' because I was, you should pardon the expression, "spoiled" for tuna at a very tender age. The girl in my Grade 5 class who everyone was interested in (yes, she was a blonde) conned me out of a very good peanut butter and marmalade lunch one day by trading me a tuna sandwich with the assurance that it was 'just like salmon'. It wasn't, and I've never been able to eat it since.

Everyone seems to be busy pointing fingers and talking about the politicians in this matter, but I would like to suggest that they may be missing the point. Look at what the company has done to what has been a respected brand name. Did you ever expect to see Charlie Tuna good enough to go into a Star-Kist tin? Did you know before that it is owned by Heinz? Did you ever think you'd see a company with its reputation do something like this?

I think what we have seen is part of our overall problem, not just in this country but on this continent. It seems to be another example of the kind of management philosophy that has seen the Japanese steal leadership in fields like automobiles, stereos and television sets.

One Edward Deming, the man they call the Father of the Japanese Miracle, was in Toronto a few weeks ago, comparing management in Canada with that in Japan. This is a man who went to Japan in 1951 to bring then-U.S. standards of quality control to their firms. Each year the Japanese present a medal with his likeness on it to the company with the greatest achievement in quality control.

He says the Japanese know a company can increase its customers by offering a better product at a reduced price, because improved quality makes for less mistakes and problems, allows for greater productivity. He calls poor quality 85% management, only 15% the workers.

And what do we do in North America? Well, among other things, business buys on the basis of best price. (Who was it asked the astronaut how he felt about going into space in a module for which every single component was provided by the lowest bidder?)

What it really comes down to is that businesses are run to make the next quarter's statement look good to buyers in the stock market, and the bottom line at year's end look even better. Why? Well, for one thing, managers get rewarded for making profits -- not for perfection on the products they make to sell to us -- and these days a lot of these rewards are in the form of company stock.

As long as management is rewarded for making profits -- often at the expense of people who work for them -- they are going to cut every corner to make those cash bonuses and stock options at the end of the year. If the truth were known, I'll bet a dollar to a doughnut (preferably not day-old) that someone at the fish plant saw his big bonus slipping away in those cans of rancid tuna, and tried every trick he knew to get them on the market.

Who cares? You should, because this isn't just about 'big business'. It's about you -- the public -- getting poor products marked 'Made in Canada'. And it's about the jobs that Canadians can't get because we so often aren't even trying to compete in quality with other countries.

And that's what's really fishy about the tuna story.

Pic of the Past

Our thanks this week to Walter Harpur of Carnarvon for giving us permission to use this most interesting photo of the Iroquois Hotel at Dorset in the early 1880's. Because of the logging industry, by the 1880's Dorset was a boom town and some of the senior citizens tell us that it was a wild spot at that time, especially when the men from the lumber camps received their pay cheques. It became a depot for the Gilmour Brothers, J.D. Shier and Mickle and Dymont. Zack Cole's hotel passed to his son George, and Dan McIlroy left the employ of Rathbuns to build an even larger hotel called the "Narrows". The famous hotel, which was located on the main street near the bridge in Dorset, later had its name changed to the Iroquois Hotel.

How important is money, really?

Question

Catherine Denholm

Is it true that most people in the Western world think money is more important than anything else? "Money obsessed societies produce dissatisfied men and women because power to buy is, as habit forming, and finally as pernicious, as heroin. One is dead before one has enough." So writes the British author John Fowles. He goes on to say that behind every dollar is a starving child and a famished future.

These are hard and forbidding words to read. We would like to think that it could be true only in his country or, perhaps, only in the rich part of our large cities - not throughout our province or across the whole country. I wonder.

We know that protecting the environment is more important than money. We know that caring for and educating children is more important than money and we know that enough food could be grown and distributed to feed the hungry and starving people of the world - that certainly is more important than money.

Ask why there is little change and improvement in any of these areas and lack of money is always given as the reason.

Is there something wrong with our priorities? Is there something fundamentally out of line in our philosophy of living?

Changes have taken place so rapidly in industry, technology and communications that we have not been able to keep up to these changes in our thinking. If all the money that is going into the arms race and space exploration were diverted to making the planet a safe and pleasant place for living it would seem to be a better way. If the happiness of people was considered as important as making cars there could be improvement.

The sad fact is that it will not happen. We surrender always to the economic situation and the old original ideas of the absolute importance of money.

Hiking - a treat for mind and body

Northern Lights

by Virginia Muenzel

Well, of course we still went to Algonquin! Hiking through the park is a sort of rejuvenation of spirit as well as the bodily processes. There are no gardens, no chickens, no jobs. We become the tourists instead of the tourer, (for lack of a better word). And we have come there to rest.

Now I know that sounds like a contradiction. How could hiking possibly be restful? But it is. We just hop in the car after a leisurely country breakfast, and drive to our trail of the day. Upon parking the car and donning our small backpacks containing fresh water, fruit and rain ponchos that we seldom use, we collect our hand-carved, personalized walking sticks, pick up the trail map, and we're off.

Entering a trail is something akin to going through "Alice's Looking Glass". After walking just a few feet, the bush closes in behind you, and you're in a whole other world. Close your eyes and take a slow deep breath. Smell the peat beneath your feet. The pine needles, and rotting tree stumps. Listen to traffic sounds giving way to the scolding of squirrels and blue jays. One can almost feel the tensions fading. All the worries and frustrations of the daily rat-race seemingly drain from the body through the feet.

There's a lot of stretches on those trails where you have to concentrate on nothing more important than putting your feet down firmly on the ground. Climbing up and down those rock ridges gives you pause to wonder why you let yourself get so out of shape. Crossing tracks of moose and deer, wolf and coon, without ever laying eyes on them, tends to make you check over your shoulder now and then, as though you were being secretly watched. At one point, after several fresh tracks were spotted, we joked that the park needed a Walt Disney to create some life-like moose bobbing their heads up out of the water.

After an arduous climb, it's great to stop on a cliff overlooking miles of hills of splashy, red maples mixed with tall pines with a sort of five dimensional feel to it. Once the panting stops, you can hear the wind whispering through the long-needed pines around us. The isolation, and the vastness of the surroundings makes you realize your insignificance in the scheme of things.

Thankfully, there are also the bog-walks. Wooden sidewalks that stretch across large marshes to another area of bush. There is one hike in the park called (interestingly enough) the Spruce Bog-Walk, which one of our group would have liked to walk every day. It's a good warming up or cooling down walk. And the guys adopted this rather strange fantasy of being park rangers checking for faulty boards, making it clear that all serious thoughts have left them.

So you see, hiking is restful. It cleanses the mind of unnecessary trivia, empties the body of unnecessary calories, leaving us open to new awareness. And also hungry for another piece of that wonderful blueberry pie, or southern pecan pie, or raspberry cheesecake, or banana tarts.

I really need to take another walk, you guys.

Ont. Naturalists

The fall hawk migration, which peaks over the next week or so, is a fascinating event. It's wedged between the now-complete exodus of insect-eating warblers (who could be starved en masse by an early frost) and the departure of waterfowl (whose food, bathed in water's heat-pools, will be the last ensnared by winter's grip).

Shortening days cue the migration, which is necessary less to avoid cold than to sustain the supply of small birds and mammals upon which

Learning some facts about Haliburton

By MARTHA PERKINS

It took me 16 years to build up my repertoire of Lindsay jokes. You know, the ones about the widest streets and the narrowest minds; the mighty Scugog which is too thick to plow and too thin to walk on; the trivia fact that green garbage bags were invented in its Union Carbide factory.

By the time I left Ryerson, everyone knew where Lindsay was but no one wanted to go for a visit. They knew the jokes by heart and were even beginning to pick up on the Lindsay Lingo, knowing how to be a true partier in the Lindsay tradition, slugging back the two-fours in the proper manner, eh? All my roommates were from Lindsay and provided endless amusement for my city friends.

But now I'm up in Haliburton and everyone knows the jokes. It's not as much fun slipping into the accent, getting carried away by the small-town mannerisms. So what I've decided to do is start a repertoire of Haliburton jokes, the ones I can tell my friends, not because I'm malicious by nature but because I appreciate the town's unique flavour.

1. Never insult anyone: Chances are that the person you are talking to is related to the one you are talking about. It's amazing that in-breeding

Redmen dominate Pembroke under lights, American rules

Haliburton high school's Redmen football teams proved their versatility on Friday when they travelled to Pembroke for an exhibition match against teams from Fellowes high school. It was the first time the Redmen had played a night game, and American four down rules were used, but the novelty didn't daunt the local boys, who came out on the winning end.

In the Junior match, Haliburton put on a strong showing and blanked Fellowes 9-0.

Strong running by Jaro Cooper and Blake Callard got the Junior Redmen off to a quick start, but the ball was fumbled on the Fellowes 10 yard line after a sustained drive and Haliburton failed to score.

Later in the first quarter the Junior Redmen forced Fellowes to punt deep in their own zone. Jamie Bruce blocked the kick and it went through the endzone, giving Haliburton a single point.

The teams traded off-sive series in the second quarter, with neither side gaining a clear advantage. The only points of the quarter were scored when Haliburton's Ron Perrin tackled a Fellowes ball carrier in his own endzone and a two point safety was added to Haliburton's total.

Two highlight plays of the third quarter were blocked punts by Glen Scheffee and Derek Little, but neither play led to further points being scored.

The only touchdown of the game was set in motion when Craig Crowe intercepted a Fellowes pass at about mid-field. With third down and long yardage, the Redmen opted for a quick kick, and Ron Perrin booted it deep into the Fellowes endzone. The ball was fumbled and Matthew Creelman recovered it to give the Redmen another six points.

Later in the quarter Craig Crowe recovered a Fellowes fumble to stall their offense and help ensure the Redmen victory.

The Juniors also benefited from the good play of Allan Rydman and Glen Scheffee.

In the senior game the Redmen defeated a big, strong Fellowes squad by a 15-6 score.

Neither team put any points on the board in the first quarter.

In the second quarter Ha-liburton's offense went into high gear, rolling up at least six first downs on good running by Andrew Burk, Jeff Bain and Scooter Burgess. The drive was capped when quarterback Trevor Powers called an option play and kept the ball himself, racing into the endzone from 12 yards out. Burgess' convert attempt was good and the Redmen led 7-0.

Later in the quarter the Redmen missed on a field goal attempt and had to settle for a single point that made it 8-0 at the half. In the third quarter Fellowes used the wind advantage well and marched downfield to score six points. The drive was made easier by a total of 60 yards in penalties that were assessed against the Redmen.

In the fourth quarter Fellowes threatened when a fourth down snap went over the head of punter Alex Little and Fellowes got possession on the 40 yard line, but they failed to score.

With less than three minutes to go, Fellowes tried a field goal but it was missed and Haliburton took possession on their own 10 yard line.

Girls field hockey team wins three in seven team exhibition tournament

The girls' field hockey team at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School hosted seven visiting teams in an exhibition tournament last Tuesday and had the best record for the day, with a perfect score of six points after winning all three of their games.

The local girls started the day off right with a victory in their first game over Lindsay Collegiate. Two goals by Emma Postlethwaite and one by Melissa Creelman gave Haliburton a 3-0 shutout.

In their second game, the HHSS team faced the squad from Bethany Hills School. This well-played game was dominated by Haliburton, but there was no scoring during the first half of play. Jenni Gentle took a powerful drive mid-way through the second half which found the far corner and soon after, Kim Curry notched her first marker, producing the final score of 2-0.

The Haliburton goalies,

Rhonda Walsh and Anita Kuno, continued with shut-out play in the third game against Peterborough Collegiate. The lone goal came off the stick of Michelle Purnell as the game ended with a 1-0 score.

Other teams competing were Bancroft, Norwood, Kenner and Lakefield. Among these, Bancroft had the best total of five points. Haliburton had defeated Bancroft in a game played in Bancroft two weeks earlier.

The local squad also competed earlier at a tournament held in Scarborough, where they defeated Nicholson High School, had a scoreless draw against St. Mary's High School and lost 1-0 to Hillfield-Stathallen of Hamilton.

The girls begin their quest for a chance to go to the all-Ontario championships when they compete in the Kawartha tournament October 17 in Peterborough.

The Haliburton Redmen travelled to Pembroke last Friday for an exhibition game against Fellowes high school, and came away victors in the junior and senior matches. Here an HHSS ballcarrier gains ground under the lights.

duced first downs and then Trevor Powers called a reverse to Peter Allore for a 30 yard gain.

Two plays later a quick pitch pass was successful as Tom McLeod tossed to Ian Cooper for a 55 yard pass and run touchdown.

Scooter Burgess was good on the convert attempt for the last play of the game.

Standouts for the senior Redmen included Paul Allore, who blocked a punt, Glen Hall, who recovered a fumble, and Tom McLeod, Mike MacNaull, Daryl Ward and Kevin Barnhart.

This Friday the Redmen will be at home against I.E. Weldon. The junior game begins at 1:30, and the senior match will follow.

St. Bernards top

The St. Bernards are on top with 19 points in the Wednesday afternoon bowling league. Terriers have 16 points, Beagles 15 points, Schnauzers 13 points, Bas-setts 12 points, and Poodles 8 points.

Top average man for singles and triples with and without handicap is Harry Henderson. Top woman for average is Mima Burwood, while Shirley Hamilton has high single with 236. High single with handicap is Pat Adams. High triple is mima Burwood and high triple with handicap is Iris Meredith.

Those bowling over 200 were Mima Burwood, 222; Ev Stata, 223; Iris Meredith, 225, 213; Pat Adams, 214; Mary Lou Bird, 201, 202.

Melissa Creelman gets set to take a shot during the first of three games that Haliburton won at a seven team field hockey tournament at HHSS last Wednesday.

The girls are practising hard in anticipation of the Kawartha tournament next week.

Home Support hear speaker

Dr. Art Prowse will be the guest speaker at the October 18 dinner meeting at the PineStone Inn and Country Club. He has published papers on the treatment of schizophrenia and investigative procedure in depression. He is actively interested in community psychiatry and in the care and support of elderly persons in need of psychiatric services. Presently over 50% of his clinical work is in geriatric psychiatry. He is the Acting Director of Psychiatric Services at the Peterborough Civic Hospital dealing also with the psychiatric assessment office for the elderly.

The date for this meeting is Friday, October 18. A full course roast beef dinner will be served at 12 noon at a cost of $6.25 per person. Dinner reservations are needed by October 11. For dinner reservations please call the Home Support office at 457-2941.

Did you know?

Has your cheque payable to MTC been returned by the bank lately?

If so, don't be shocked if you can't get your renewal sticker for your vehicle next time you go to an issuing office. On August 1, Ontario's vehicle computer was reprogrammed to keep records on all "bad" cheques used for vehicle registration and retail sales tax payments. Vehicle owners will be notified immediately by MTC if their cheques are returned by the bank. Failure to pay within 30 days of the date of the notification letter means an additional penalty.

Everyone is welcome to attend. Plan to attend and bring a friend. If you wish to come and hear Dr. Prowse speak plan to be there at approximately 1 p.m. The Home Support office and the Drop-In Centre will be open Thanksgiving Monday from 1 to 4 p.m.

Reservoir lakes above average

As of September 30, the reservoir level fell only slightly from the previous week, decreasing 2.27% to stand at 52.94% of the full level. The fall was less than the expected 0.5% per day decrease due to the wet weather experienced near the end of the week. The reservoir total is still about 6% over the ten year average and a full 16% over the 1983 level.

In the week ending October 4, the flow from the Gull River remained fairly constant with 17.4 m3/s flowing past the village of Norland. The Burnt River flow increased throughout the week and held at 13.7 m3/s on October 3.

All the Kawartha lakes except Balsam and Scugog rose slightly over the week ending September 30 and was mainly due to rain and reservoir flow. Balsam Lake fell only marginally while Scugog Lake remained steady.

Lake Simcoe level began to decline at the rate of close to one centimeter per day in the first week of October yet the level remained 6 cm above the rule curve on October 4. At this rate, the rule curve should be reached within the next two weeks.

Pronouncing names just one challenge for a newcomer

isn't a problem here. By the end of my stint at the Echo, I'm sure I'll only have met half the Currys, Bains, Sissons, Bishops, Robertsons...

2. If you've got a cold, everyone's got a cold! Moving up to Haliburton meant the end of wallowing in self-pity as soon as my nose starts trickling or head starts filling up with something that isn't grey matter. Last week, the more people I told I had a cold the more people took out their hankies and started telling me their symptoms.

3. Shivering is sacreligious: Thomas Chandler Haliburton gave more than his name to this place, he left a legacy of belief that the colder the weather, the better the people. When he first started letting people into this great land, he'd only allow those people who came from countries with similar climates and these poor people haven't learned just how wonderful a suntan in February can be. Everyone assures me Haliburton is no colder than Lindsay, but I tend to doubt it. At least a winter up here will make me a better person.

4. That's Ka-shag-a-wig-a-mog not Kasha-wiga-mog: Haliburtonians are proud of their ability to pronounce tongue-twisting Indian words and think only people who have been born here can learn to say them properly. I want to point out that after only two weeks up here, my speech impediment cleared up and I was able to sound a bit like a native (it helped that my cottage is on Kashaga Drive so I learned about that first "g").

5. If you haven't lived here for 50 years you're just passing through: To say you live in Haliburton is one thing, to say you're from Haliburton is another. It's not that people haven't made me feel welcome but I'm beginning to feel like I am a flash in the pan. It helped that I'm from Lindsay, but as I mentioned before, Lindsay is the chicken's way out of winter. At least I'm not a big city slicker who has no appreciation of the finer things in life like getting only one channel on TV and long distance telephone bills.

6. Everyone your age is married: If you want to latch onto someone up here then you have to do it when you're young. It's slim pickin's after that. I find it unbelievable that many couples started dating when they were 13 years old and kept at it until they were married. The competition must have been fierce in public school. Shakespeare must have been living in a town the size of Haliburton when he wrote Romeo and Juliet.

Bruce Turner captures history through lens

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

The scene is a horrendous one. A DC 8 jet has crashed and the remnants are lying scattered around the airstrip. What was once a plane loaded with people eager to arrive in Bolton has now become a symbol of death and wasted lives.

But people around the world want to see a picture of that crash when they read their morning paper in the security of their home. A photographer is sent to record a piece of history.

The next scene is a lighter one. The most popular group in music's history has arrived in town and people want a picture of the beloved Beatles. The photographer gets to stand only a few feet away, a position many young people are screaming to be in.

Every day means a different scene whether it is a candid look at Robert Kennedy or the sky ablaze with colour when Detroit is burning. A photographer is sent to record the image.

Working as a freelance photographer for the Toronto Star was an exciting and invigorating life for Bruce Turner. In his privileged yet hard-earned position he could get closer to the events which shaped our lives than most people could dream of.

So why, you may wonder, did he decide on an early retirement in the small hamlet of Donald? The highs were thrilling ones but consider what the daily doses of shattered lives were like.

"I lived that part of my life a lot earlier than other people do," he says from the kitchen of his home overlooking the Burnt River. "Moving up here just seemed the thing to do at the time."

His days now are spent looking after his three daughters as his wife, Karen goes off to work at the Haliburton Hospital, or taking pictures of a wedding somewhere in the area. He also gets a few shots into the Star as he works for them as a stringer, covering events such as the recent Liberal gathering at the PineStone Inn. His camera is always clicking whether it be passport pictures, brochure pictures, advertising pictures, school pictures, family pictures or the ones he likes to do best, the pictures of his wife and daughters. He's still taking pictures of things that shape people's lives, only now it is on a much more personal level.

One can't really say Bruce Turner was born into the life of a photographer but a few family members working in the newspaper business provided inspiration.

His father started as an office boy at the Star and after the war, progressed to a reporter's position, covering such events as the reign of Joey Smallwood in Newfoundland. His mother worked on the resort page of the Globe and Mail. His uncle was the youngest owner of a newspaper chain in Toronto.

Surrounded by his work, Turner completes yet another part of recording images on film

They helped get him into the Star but they're not who got him started taking pictures in his early teens. Hockey did.

"I'd go down to the Maple Leaf games and see all these photographers standing near the ice. I thought it would be nice to be close to the players."

So off he went to buy his first camera. "The first game I don't think I had film in my camera," he says, a smile breaking across his bearded face. "I started carrying on a conversation with one of the other photographers and when one of the usherettes came up, he said, 'It's okay, he's with me.'"

And so Bruce Turner got started on his photographic career and in the years to come, taking photographs of sports events was to remain an important part of his life.

When his father drowned in KENNISIS Lake, the Star kindly offered the 14-year-old son a job as a copy boy, or in many cases, the coffee boy.

He worked there on weekends and in the summers, doing odd jobs, picking up sandwiches, carrying piles of the Globe and Mail to the Star office on his shoulders when they were hot off the press. Soon he began hanging around the photography lab, watching hundreds of pictures come in on the wire, as well as the local ones.

"There's no better way to learn something as watching and asking questions," he says with conviction. "It got to the point where I was printing the pictures I had taken and showing them to photographers."

Back at Maple Leaf Gardens, the UPI photographer could only stay for the first two periods but Turner would linger to capture anything that might happen in the third. Of four or five rolls of film, perhaps one photograph would be chosen.

Photography was a lucrative profession even back then.

"When I was 15 years old, I got a call from one of an advertising agency's national accounts. I didn't know what I'd be taking a picture of. I took a picture of a wire display rack to hold lightbulbs for the salesman's portfolios and got $250. I was there for an hour and a half."

This sort of job was bringing in a lot of money by itself so Turner just continued as a freelance photographer for the Star, being there when they needed him but also being able to go out and do other things. "You never knew what to expect."

Toronto in the 60's was an exciting place to be, when Yorkville was the Greenwich Village of the north. "What I went through in those years was something special." Those were the years of Bobby Kennedy and the Beatles. "Just to be part of it and relatively close to it was something."

How does he feel about coming face to face with the famous Fab Four? "Personally, whoop di do, I might have talked to John Lennon. Just because you're standing two feet away from them, you're going to talk to them."

Yet once again, the conversation turns to those more grizzly things he had to do.

"I was there because I had to be there and I was paid to be there" - certainly different from all those "gawkers" who always turned up at the scene of a particularly gruesome accident. "People really don't want to see bad things happen but in a sense they do."

The good picture of a fight at a hockey game, the de-sensitizing picture of an airplane crash, the heart rending shot of the forlorn family standing by their burning house -- they're not the prettiest pictures but they are what sells newspapers.

Turner compares it to being an ambulance driver or a doctor. You get used to death being around you but, if you're like Turner, nothing can ever get you to stand completely away from it.

His eyes fill with distant tears which threaten to come to the surface as he remembers a terrible accident which occurred this summer on County Road 1. Two young girls died and Turner was right at the scene. This is not a man who has become injured to death.

"It seems today that we feel sorry but we accept things an awful lot easier," he reflects. "It's hard to sit down and watch Hill Street Blues and then pick up the paper to read about a double murder."

And so he left the city for Donald. By the time he left Toronto in 1979, he had been photo editor for four years and had taken the pictures for two sports books.

Taking some time off photography, but not stopping working, Turner built a spacious home around an old log cabin he had moved up to the top of a hill just outside Donald. The inside is gorgeous, an idyllic version of the country home and hearth.

His six-year-old daughter Jennifer takes the school bus into town to her Grade One class along with her four-year-old sister Erin, who goes every second day. Young Laurie, two, stays at home with her mom and dad, and sometimes with grandma is both parents are busy at work.

The pace has slowed down considerably but then that's why they moved here. Turner can spend eight hours at a wedding or going to a local school to take pictures. This year, as in other years, he's teaching a photography course for Sir Sandford. There's always something to keep him busy.

Right now he has to restore an old photograph which has half of the man's head missing. Restoration is a time-consuming process as he has to take a picture of the old photograph, work on the reprint to get rid of cracks and fill in faded areas and then take another picture of the print. This may have to be repeated many times until the photograph looks as if it was kept in an air-tight time capsule for posterity.

Many people have no idea of the amount of time involved in making custom prints, Turner says, and expect him to process a roll of colour film as fast as the larger companies.

"For me to do one roll of film would take four hours to process and print," he says, explaining that working with his colour processor, each negative has to be handled individually to get all the proper colours at the right intensity. Developing companies have computerized memories and can record hundreds of different codes at a time.

This is not to say he can't work in bulk. During the summer, he takes pictures for the hockey camp with all of the participants and each week's guest. Sometimes the guest would not arrive until the day before the girls were expected to leave and Turner would have to print 250 prints in one night.

Photography records our lives

Painstaking care is also necessary in taking pictures, not just developing them.

"Aside from all the stock pictures of cutting the cake, we also take a lot of candid pictures which are very popular." Most photographers leave after taking group pictures but Turner will stick around until the garter is thrown as well as the bouquet. Also different from the norm, he gives all the proofs to the young couple and lets them keep the pictures.

One problem he has found over the years is that with the increased popularity of photography, many people think of themselves as professional photographers. This means that people may get "Uncle Harry" to take the wedding pictures, only to have Turner try to fix them up.

"A person isn't an electrician because they can put in a lightbulb or otherwise I wouldn't be teaching photography," he says.

"The most important part of photography is preserving something. It may be there but to put it in the perspective of how you're seeing it at that time," is the challenge. He gives equal importance to "taking pictures on the one hand and processing and printing on the other."

If someone starts with a picture out of focus in the viewfinder, then at every stage after that it is going to get worse.

Years and years of practice have made Bruce Turner the excellent photographer he is today. His life may not be as exciting as it was in those early years, but that seems to suit him just fine.

Hawk migration takes place throughout Ontario most depend. Perhaps 1,000,000 adults and young, of 12 different species, will come through. While all share the basic hawk form, each is distinguishable by silhouette and markings.

Broadwings are crow-sized hawks, aptly named for their broad, white-under-sided wings and short, broad tail, boldly barred black and white. Though seldom seen in agricultural Ontario during breeding season, they're our most abundant hawk during migration. This is because they are woodland hawks, breeding throughout the vast forests of central and northern Ontario, and wintering in central and South America.

Sharp-shins - nicknamed 'sharpies' by birders - are the next most common. Smaller than broadwings, they have a long, narrow tail whose end is so squared it looks like someone snipped it with scissors. Forest birds also, they're highly agile, able to manoeuvre among trees in pursuit of small birds.

Red-tails, named for their unmistakable, rusty-red tail feathers, are the typical hawk of agricultural and cleared areas, where they consume vast numbers of mice and moles. 'Anticipating' snow's deep mantle, which will shelter rodents from their reach, red-tails head south. Interestingly, the 'banana belt', kept largely snow-free by Lakes Erie and Ontario, and around the fringe of large urban areas, affords an abundant supply of small mammals, and many red-tails will end their migration there.

Hawk migration proceeds erratically, and is integrally tied to the weather. During storms, fronts and windy days, there is almost no movement - to do so consumes undue energy. Instead, hawks await still, clear weather. Their ideal seems to be those still, sunny crisp mornings of early autumn, especially following a cold night, or several days of inclement weather. Then all at once, they seem to soar.

CGITs seek truth, strive to serve others

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

Seventy years ago, a group of young girls began getting together in between their regular Sunday school meetings. Their focus remained religious but the extra evening out gave them a chance to do things they couldn't do in the confines of Sunday worship. Soon, girls all over Canada began doing the same thing.

Today, Canadian Girls in Training is a thriving group in Haliburton. With 32 girls between the ages of 12 and 17, six assistant leaders and four senior leaders meeting at least once each week, the friendships they make on Sundays are able to carry on through the rest of their social lives.

"You get to meet with all your friends and do things you wouldn't do at home," says 15-year-old Alison Bain, the newly elected president of the Haliburton CGIT. "You get out for a night."

She likes CGIT better than Girl Guides because she says CGIT offers more activities and emphasis is placed more on the group rather than individual achievement. "You do a lot more here than you would in Guides," she maintains.

The group is split up into four age brackets, instead of small groups. Right now, as part of their mission work, the girls are studying native issues. Last year they learned about Korea. One other night they may do crafts or look at a slide presentation, such as the one last year on China. At the end of October will come the Halloween party and from then until Christmas there'll be just enough time to plan the vesper service.

"It should be an overall program stressing everything," says Sheila Popple, one of the adult leaders. Her mother, Maxine Curry, took over the first CGIT group in 1941 when the minister's wife stepped down after a brief stint. It was Mrs. Curry who organized the first vesper service. The group is important to her because "you don't leave God at the doorstep on Sundays."

Religion, whatever the denomination, plays an important role in the CGIT group. Each night the girls repeat their purpose, reaffirming their commitment. "As a Canadian Girl in Training under the leadership of Jesus, it is my purpose to cherish health, seek truth, know God, serve others, and thus, with His help, become the girl God would have me be."

Eleanor Holmes, another one of the adult leaders, says one of the reasons CGIT may be so popular here while it is dwindling in other areas, is that the Haliburton churches are very active.

"These ministers here, you ask them to do anything and they'll do it," Holmes had been part of a different CGIT group in Toronto and finds she really enjoys it up here in Haliburton.

"We really do try to show the girls proper meeting procedures," she says, adding that this is important if the girls find later in life they must chair or organize a group meeting.

"You have to be responsible for all the other girls and you have to be able to work with small groups or larger groups," says Bain of what she has learned at CGIT. Going out into the community "makes you realize what really does go on and about the people who don't have much money."

Helping people in need is another thing the girls strive toward. Each year they hold a chili dinner and have attracted more than 300 people to this fund-raising event. Some of the money is used to send two girls to the CGIT Crossroads camp while another donation may be sent to the health centre in Vellore, India. They also help a man distribute food to the needy.

"We try to live up to our purpose and reach out into the community," says Sheila Popple.

Though many things have changed since 1915, the motto of this year's anniversary shows that things will still be going strong in the next 70 years. "Young and alive in '85" speaks of all the good things that are going to happen as the group continues to grow and mature.

Notice

The Ministry of Natural Resources is proposing to stabilize the Shoreline to prevent erosion at the Fire Operations Headquarters in Haliburton on Head Lake. The burying of the existing water line in the lakebed at the same locations is also proposed.

This involves placing 4"-10" gabion stone along the shoreline to prevent erosion. The trenching of the lakebed for a distance of 20 feet from the existing high water mark is also proposed to facilitate burying the water line to prevent freezing.

These projects are being planned in accordance with the approved M.N.R. Class Environmental Assessment for Shoreline and Streambank Stabilization.

Such assessments are intended to give interested and affected parties the opportunity to provide input to the planning of such projects and to request, if necessary, individual treatment under the Environmental Assessment Act.

You are invited to direct any inquiries, comments or concerns regarding the shoreline stabilization and burial of the water line to the District Manager, Minden District by Oct. 16, 1985.

Final notice of these projects will be issued to those who reply to this notice and to those who are directly affected.

Curlers get ready

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

The maples are at their colourful best. A last big holiday is coming up this weekend and the Blue Jays are winning. Now let's talk about winter sports.

The Wilberforce Curling Club members are preparing for their best ever season of rock throwing. Don Fevreau is the enthusiastic new president and Roger Hogan has taken on the office of secretary-treasurer. At a recent meeting a schedule for upcoming games was drawn up which includes mixed curling on Sunday and Monday nights, ladies curling on Tuesday nights and the men's curling on Thursdays. This is a wonderful game for young people and a rink composed of younger players will be organized.

Ice making will begin shortly and it is hoped that games will commence before the end of October. The club has rejoined the O.C.A. One benefit from this is that a rink from Wilberforce will be eligible to join in the provincial playoffs. If you are interested in learning more about the club call 448-2222 and obtain your application for membership.

Work is going ahead in the arena with repairs being made to the ice surface where steel headers are being replaced with those of plastic. A septic tank system will also be installed for the arena.

Over at the Lloyd Watson Centre a ramp will be installed for the use of wheelchairs.

Further work at the ball field consists of top soil to fill in the low spots of the field. This is being dumped and spread.

Our busy reeve, Keith Tallman, always looking after the welfare of the Township, has been to Kingston to speak with government officials about the condition of our highway and brings back the good news that it looks as though road construction will begin in the spring of 1986.

A well known landmark on the shores of Lake Wilberforce is the home of Ethel and Albert Saunders. The Saunders have been living and farming here since the early thirties. They have raised their family and are alone again in the old homestead. They are aware of the interesting history of the house, which is 117 years old. Ethel and Albert have recently given the place a facelift by adding aluminum siding and trim, by installing carpeting throughout and now Ethel is busy making new drapes to keep out the icy blasts of winter that sweep across the lake. This industrious couple are to be congratulated on their active life style that keeps them young in heart and spirit.

Saturday, October 12 brings a number of interesting events beginning with a garage sale being held at St. Margaret's Church from 10 to 3. From 10 to 12 there is the rummage sale in the church basement.

At 1:30 p.m. you are invited to meet the author of the newly published book 'Me 'N Len' at the Monmouth Library. Richard Pope will be on hand to autograph copies of his book. Mr. Pope knows this area well and through his friendship with well-known resident Len Holmes, has put together a collection of memorable anecdotes that tell of hunting and trapping

Club wants shoppers

Dorset News

by Phyllis Briscoe

Who would not rather be a poor man in a garret with plenty of books to read than a king who did not love reading?

Anyone interested in doing some shopping at the Georgian Mall in Barrie in November 14? The Dorset Social Club is trying to get a sufficient number of people to make the trip financially feasible, since there has to be a certain number or the cost of a bus is prohibitive. This trip is open to anyone, not just club members, so if you wish an inexpensive shopping trip call Elizabeth Richter at 766-2458.

William Anderson, commonly known as Andy, died recently at the nursing home in Mississauga where he had resided for several years. Mr. Anderson had a summer home on Grindstone Lake for many years and in later years had boarded with Miss Kate MacKay in the winter. He was well known in the Dorset area and had many friends here. He leaves one son, Please turn to Page 20 through the years in this section of the county. The book has been illustrated by painter Neil Broadfoot and will be welcomed as a treasure of information about our beautiful countryside.

At five o'clock you can have a delicious turkey dinner at the Lloyd Watson Centre. Dinner will be served until seven. All kinds of goodies, including scrumptious pie, will be served. This event is sponsored by the Monmouth Agricultural Society.

To conclude a busy day there will be a dance in the arena organized by the Recreation Committee with music by 'Something Blue'.

Our local poet sends this little gem. "How Dark Lake Got Its Name".

The village slumbered in the hot 80 degree weather. The warm south wind ruffled the Canadian flag outside the school.

The outrageous fall colours on the hillside at the north end of Main Street acted as a backdrop to the whole scene. The waters of the lake were disturbed only by a loon. Suddenly scudding low across the surface of the water came a noxious black cloud, hiding first the loon then the flag and the school house, and finally the whole hillside. The wicked Americans polluting our beautiful northern lakes?

Not so. Our very own Veneer Factory was the source. The life blood of the village. Dark Lake is aptly named. This actually happened September 23, 1985.

Phillip Tallman, son of Keith and Sylvia Tallman of Wilberforce, has recently graduated from Loyalist College in Belleville, receiving his diploma in Creative Advertising. Phillip is presently employed with the Toronto Star.

Community centre opens Saturday with banquet

Coboconk News

by Shiela Lake

October 12 is the official opening date for the new Norland Community Centre. Official ceremonies begin at 4 p.m. and a buffet supper is being served at 5:30 p.m. Dinner (all you can eat) costs $6 per person and if you should care to spend the evening dancing, the dinner and dance is $20 per couple. Many people in this small community have laboured long for this centre and are justifiably proud to see its completion. Come out and join in the community spirit.

Larry Sielski and family are a part of our community and settled in their home on Grandy Road. Mr. Sielski is the new manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce here. The retiring manager, Joseph Huffer, and family have moved into the Warner Tournsby house across from the Gull River vet clinic.

Winners in Tuesday evening's card games held by Coboconk senior citizens at the Coboconk Hall are as follows: Euchre - ladies - Jean Barkwell, 80; Jean Crisp, 75; most lone hands, Pat Dewell, 5; consolation, Jenny Calhoun, Gents - Stan Stewart, 78; Adrian Lee, 75; most lone hands, Freda Boyce, 5; consolation, Joe Manley, 36. Bridge - Thelma Saunderson, 5740; Myra Dyon, 5730; consolation, Phyl Pearce, 930.

Prior to the card games, a potluck supper was held with a good crowd, and plenty of eats and a social time was enjoyed by all.

Congratulations to the Sandford Richmans, who celebrated their wedding anniversary on October 1, and to Rod Cameron, who reached the healthy age of 88 years on October 1.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Steven Brohm, who were married in Faith Tabernacle, Coboconk, on October 5. Steve is the son of Bob and Irene Brohm of Norland.

Meet the Teacher night opens door for discussion

Norland News

by Kelly Graham

Hi. As Thanksgiving once again rolls around I'd like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a very happy Thanksgiving.

I'd like to start off this week with some news from Norland Public School: on Thursday, October 24 the school will be holding a Meet the Teacher night from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Parents and relatives are welcome to come into the classes and have a brief chat with his/her teacher.

On Saturday, October 5 the school held a walk-a-thon. I trust the venture was successful.

The home and school will be holding their next meeting on Wednesday, October 16 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the school. A new executive will be elected and Mrs. Chambers (the school's kindergarten teacher) will make a presentation on Early Childhood Education. Anyone is welcome, even those who may not have a child enrolled in the school.

Many thanks to the school for sending their newsletter my way.

Good luck to all the local hunters who are once again packing up to head north and try their hand at moose hunting. As soon as I hear of a success I'll let you know.

Tickets for the opening, dinner, and dance at the new community centre are going fast. If you wish to purchase some contact Doug Horton or inquire at the township office.

Congratulations to Beulah and Frank Pengally who celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this weekend.

The happy couple have been Norland summer residents for about twenty years.

Here are last week's euchre scores. Ladies: Jean Barkwell, first; Jean Crisp, second; Pat Dewell, lone hands; Jenny Calhoun, consolation. In men's euchre the winners were: Stan Stewart, first; Adrian Lee, second; Joe Manly, consolation; Frieda Boyce, lone hands. In bridge first place went to Thelma Saunders, Myra Dyon captured second and the consolation prize went to Phil Pearce.

That's all for this week. If you have any news to submit please give me a call at 454-3707.

Little Anthony Rolfe has been in hospital. I hope he's well and back home very soon with his sisters Zoie and Jennie, mom and dad.

It's good to hear Jim Simpson Sr. is out of hospital. Alex Graham has been on the sick list recently.

Happy birthday wishes to Alex Graham on October 16.

Thanks to Rick Watson who stopped by the garage last Thursday to let Jim Simpson Jr. know Bill and I were stopped out of town and thanks to Jim who arrived to help us so promptly.

Visitors at our house last week were Stephen and Helen Coker with their young daughters Heather and Christina from Huntsville.

The grand opening of Norland's beautiful new community centre which is located on Highway 35 in Ward Park, north of Norland will be held Saturday, October 12 beginning with the ribbon cutting ceremony from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and followed in turn by a social half hour.

Dignitaries are expected to attend. Smorgasbord will be from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. followed by a dance from 8:30 p.m. to possibly 1:00 a.m. Dinner will be $6 each and dance $5 or if you prefer, dance and dinner can be enjoyed with a saving of $20 per couple (a package deal). Children will be admitted at reduced rates. There will be door and dinner prizes.

I'm told you'd be very wise in getting your tickets early as they're going fast. You can get these from the Norland Firefighters, clerk's office, Dolly LeCraw, Grace England, Laura Gaunt or Doug Horton. Come out and help enjoy the big day. Music will be supplied for the dance by Gary Peters and his band "Thunder Road".

Meet the teacher night at Norland Public School will be Thursday, October 24 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Another Commodore 64 computer has been received at the Norland school and Mrs. West's grade 4-5-6 are making full use of it.

For the ladies requesting a recipe: Autumn Blush: 1 1/2 cups drained sour cherries (#2 can), 1/4 tsp. red food colouring, 1 cup cherry juice, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 tbsps. flour, 1/2 cup nuts. That is the baking powder, salt and 1 1/4 cups sugar onto butter. Add milk and vanilla. Mix until all dry ingredients are dampened. Beat two minutes. Add egg. Beat one minute longer. Turn into a well-greased Pyrex utility dish or into two round cake dishes. Scatter drained cherries and nuts over top of batter. Pour topping sauce over top and bake about 50 minutes in utility dish or 40 minutes in cake dishes, at 350°F. Makes 8 to 10 servings. Note: Frozen cherries can also be used.

Thanks Sheila Lake and to all my family for the nicest birthday I ever had. Bill, Jason and I had dinner at the "Grand Experience" in Lindsay. Terrific! I'll be going back.

I hope all you ailing folks are well soon. The rest of you stay well and happy, read the Echo and call me at 488-2353.

By the way, don't forget St. James A.C.W. annual turkey dinner to be held in Kinmount Legion Hall 4:30 to 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, October 19. Adults $6, children 6-12 years $3 and preschoolers free. Come out and enjoy a delicious home cooked meal.

Mark this one on your calendar too: at Kinmount Community Centre Saturday, October 26 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. a Community Christmas Bazaar will be held. All kinds of goodies and tables are available at $5 each. For further information call Chris Weerdenburg at 488-2114.

Also: Haliburton County Home Support Services will be having dinner at noon at PineStone Inn on Friday, October 18. This will be $6.25 each. There will be a guest speaker, Dr. Art Prowse from Peterborough Civic Hospital, attending this meeting of the executive. Be there and enjoy a nice day.

Welcome home from Stratford, Jean Hollobon.

Movies, bus trip fill seniors' days

Senior League

by Bert Harrison at Hyland Crest

Dear readers, Thanksgiving time is drawing nearer. Let us be thankful for all our blessings during the past year.

We residents have much to be thankful for here at Hyland Crest - a lovely home, good nursing care, good food, friendly staff. We really fare the best.

Quite a lot of activity took place here over the weekend. Mary Oliver had her niece and husband come to bring her birthday cheer. She and her husband were missionaries in Africa for a good many years. Mary also had her brother Bill come to join in her celebration at her home near Halls Lake shore. So she had a really good time; what could she ask for more?

Lilly Hogg isn't missing her room mate while she is away. She has relatives coming to call on her almost every day. Edith Welch had Edith McArthur come stay with her to dine, along with Edith's sister Caroline.

We had no sing-song Friday afternoon, but watched movies instead. There's always something to keep us entertained.

Rev. Burgess has a very interesting message for us Sunday night. When both the Burgess' and Thompsons are there everything seems to go just right.

Our ladies are working in the craft room keeping everything up to par, making different items for their Christmas bazaar.

Tuesday morning Father Ranson from Kinmount Anglican Church came over to Hyland Crest.

Members of the Auxiliary had their first meeting after the summer holidays. They are good help here at Hyland Crest in many different ways.

Tuesday at noon Doris said she would take all residents who would like to go for a bus ride all around the countryside and through the towns to see the coloured leaves before they come tumbling down. I would have liked to go myself on this October day; the reason 'd 't I'd better not say.

We thank Darrel Crowe for coming Tuesday night and bringing a little cheer, to play and sing the love songs the ladies like to hear.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Minden Institute brought and served a lunch. Ray Jenkins who plays fine piano music, played to honour his dear mother on her 95th birthday. Congratulations and best wishes we would like to say. There was also a birthday cake for those who had birthdays in September, and it tasted just great. Ray kept right on playing while we residents ate.

We also had a residents' council meeting on this October day. We thank Pearl Lyle acting as secretary while Mary Oliver was away.

Olive Hamilton, who works in the office, by the way, her husband Jim had serious surgery just the other day. We're all pulling for you, Jim, and wish you all the best and look forward to when you will get back your strength and Olive can return to us again.

We had no sing-song Friday afternoon. Doris showed us movies in the auditorium. Doris can rise to any situation - 'Norwegian Fisheries', Spruce Bay' and 'Ottawa - Reflections of a Nation'.

It is good to have Jack Stewart back from hospital where he has been for a few days. Also Teddy Carr went back to Lindsay for a checkup and got a good report and we would just like to say Millie Wood is doing well and gaining every day.

October: 'Tis a banner of gold and scarlet October flings to the breeze And none other of all the 12 months Can boast such colours as these.

For the trees that through all the summer Have been dressed in the darkest green Now hanging with red and yellow In most gorgeous colours are seen.

Old storekeeper in Extencicare

Carnarvon News

Our county is very beautiful just now with such vivid colouring. Each year seems to be better than the last. What a pity it is a herald of winter though it too can be very beautiful in a different way.

Mrs. Bob Fletcher is visiting with family in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Archer have returned home from a trip to Sault Ste. Marie where they visited with Mildred's sisters, Mrs. Thelma Scott, and Mrs. Roma Barth, who is now recovering from surgery.

Fred Chapple was a visitor in Toronto over the weekend.

Gordon Allcorn, who has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Phil Allcorn, is now in Extencicare so if you are out that way drop in and see him. He was a friend to many when he was a storekeeper here.

Visiting this weekend with the Albert Carpenters were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Belmont and family of Fenelon Falls.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Denison of Toronto on the birth of their first baby, a daughter, Emily Nicole, a third granddaughter of Grace Renouf of Carnarvon Bake Shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miflin have returned home after a month's holiday in eastern Canada.

Mrs. Bill McKay has spent the past week with her mother and family in Toronto. Bill went down on Friday to see a specialist. They returned home together on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Moss Davis spent some time visiting with their son Brian and family. They were accompanied as far as Kirkfield by Doris Redner who will stay with the Albert Davis family. Albert was hospitalized last week in Orillia but is now recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Max McKay and Grace Renouf spent a four day camping trip in and around North Bay.

Trip to Stratford receives standing ovation

Gooderham News

by Mary Hadley

I was one of a group of 38 who enjoyed a bus trip to Stratford the last weekend in September. This was arranged by the Haliburton County Home Support Services through Fenlon Travel.

We left Haliburton on Friday morning, arriving at the Victorian Inn in Stratford where we had a delicious buffet dinner. We were left free to explore this lovely and unique city in the evening.

After breakfast at our hotel on Saturday we had time to shop in downtown Stratford before going to the Jester Arms for a chicken luncheon. From there most of us walked the short distance to the Avon Theatre for the afternoon performance of Oliver Goldsmith's comedy, "The Stoops to Conquer". This had its premiere at London's Covent Garden theatre in 1773 where it was an immediate hit.

The tapestry of hilarity includes a blustery country squire (Douglas Campbell), his would-be cified wife (Joy Coghill), a fair daughter (Seana McKenna) and ward (Sharry Flett), a rambunctious son (William Vickers) and a pair of swains who come a-courting. As well as some of comedy's most endearing characters, it contains riotous fun and rollicking romance.

Following the play we were taken to Daniel's restaurant for an excellent New York steak dinner.

After a buffet breakfast we were taken on a guided tour of the Leslie Cheese House. This is a family business dating from 1951. It was founded by cheese maker Frank Leslie, whose uncle was responsible for the mammoth 22,000 pound Canadian cheese on display at the Chicago World's Fair of 1883.

The building is actually a network of underground cellars, originally built for a brewery, where the cheese is cured in wooden boxes. Many weighed 300 pounds. The wooden boxes are necessary so air can circulate and allow the cheese to "breathe".

After the cellars tour, we were ushered into a large room where Mr. Leslie's daughter described the process as we tasted the different products.

All of their cheese is shipped to them from Millbank or St. Mary's to be aged. The house we visited is a symbol of their craftsmanship and is stamped on all their products along with the name "Millbank". It is sold in grocery stores and specialty shops - mostly south or west of Stratford.

We were served a ham steak luncheon at our hotel before taking a five-minute walk across a beautiful park and crossing the Avon River to the Festival Theatre for the performance of "The Government Inspector".

This is an adaptation and translation of Nikolai Gogol's book. He is an author of our time who wants to portray the people of his time. Less than two months after the premiere, he left Russia to live abroad, writing that a prophet has no honour in his own country.

The crooked officials of a corrupt town dread the arrival of the government inspector from St. Petersburg. Meanwhile, a public servant, (Richard McMillan), bankrupt because of gambling debts, pretends to be the government inspector and lines his pockets with bribes. The cheats get cheated. It is a masterpiece of mistaken identity. Peter Donat plays the mayor.

In 1952 Tom Patterson, a local journalist, developed a dream about establishing a major annual festival, focusing on Shakespearean plays. After discussion with such people as Dora Mavor Moore, he went to Tyrone Guthrie, one-time head of the Old Vic. They built a huge tent. A year later, 1953, Sir Alec Guinness walked onto the stage erected beneath the second largest canvas tent in North America and uttered the opening lines of Richard III. So the Stratford Festival was born. In 1957 the theatre opened on the same site. It is nestled in the midst of the park system that runs the entire length of the beautiful Avon river. This is recognized as having the most access of parkland per capita for any Canadian city.

To me it was a thrilling and exciting weekend. Thanks are due the Haliburton County Home Support Services who sponsored it; Katherine McMahon who initiated it; our hostess, Darlene McElwain; our bus driver, Ross Mark and Linda Coneybeare of Fenlon Travel.

Some 19 players were present at the school last Tuesday. Winners were Jim Ross and Claribel Sheehan, each with over 4000 points.

Sympathy of our community is extended to the relatives of Earl Cain who passed away recently in hospital. He is survived by his wife, the former Celia Reil.

Margaret and Dallyn Pickens have returned from a holiday in Thunder Bay where they visited their daughter Christina, her husband Tom, and son Jamie.

Sylvia Garrett passed away at her home in Irondale last Friday morning. We extend sympathy to her daughter, Judy, her sister, Melitta, and her mother, in their bereavement.

Recipe for this week: Quick Rice Pudding - 1 cup packaged pre-cooked rice, 2 1/2 cup milk, 1 package vanilla pudding mix - 3 1/2 oz., 2 tbsps. raisins, 1/8 tsp. nutmeg and 1 tbsps. cinnamon sugar. Combine raisins, rice and 2 cups milk in saucepan. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Reduce heat, cover, cook over heat for 5 minutes. Add pudding mix to remaining milk. Mix well. Stir into rice mixture. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Stir in nutmeg. Turn into a serving dish. Sprinkle with cinnamon sugar. Chill for 15 minutes.

We went to Fort Erie last Friday evening and stayed over Saturday. I had a lovely visit with my sister June Stuart and family, my mother Eva Harrison and my sister Barbara Smith and family. We had a lovely weekend except every time we go down we drive into rainstorms both going down and returning home. We had to return home on Saturday so we all gathered at June's for a wonderful dinner, with my birthday being on Sunday my sister Barbara drew me a picture of a vase of flowers and being on a sugar free diet, she drew me a beautiful miniature birthday cake. We thoroughly enjoyed ourselves, and appreciated the hospitality.

Mrs. Debbie Gilbert and daughter Amanda flew to England last Saturday to visit Debbie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woolley and her brother David. The grandparents had not seen Amanda yet. Debbie plans to visit other relatives on her two week stay in England.

A belated happy 40th anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Gilbert. Their anniversary was on Thursday, October 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Mervin Rivers went to Ottawa last weekend. They visited Parliament Hill and came back through Pembroke, Eganville and Barry's Bay. They really enjoyed the coloured leaves.

John and Audrey Farley from England have been visiting the George Tiptons. The Farleys were the Tiptons' guests at the inaugural meeting of the Minden Lions Club on Saturday.

Bonnie and Randy Jennings have a daughter, Tiffany Louise, born on October 1, and weighing in at a healthy 8 lbs., 14 oz. Congratulations.

Henry Lehtonen, son of Teppo and Sylvia Lehtonen of Grass Lake, and his family have been weekend visitors from Port Huron, Michigan.

Henry's 10-year-old daughter, Tracey, caught a 21-lb. muskie in Grass Lake to the delight of all concerned. It was 44 inches long. Well done. They are going to have it properly mounted and proudly displayed in their home.

Craft Day is happening for the second time at St. Andrew's church, West Guilford. Some of us hope to learn macrame or other skills. Come and join us, Carol, Lenie, Janet, Cathy, Sylvia, and anyone else who Please turn to Page 20

THANK YOU

The family of the late Jackie Roberts wish to express sincere thanks to Dr. Baxter and Dr. Harwick, and ambulance attendants Bill Davis and Dave Devalk. Many thanks to neighbours, friends and relatives for cards, floral tributes, prayers, donations to charities, and many acts of kindness; the IGA staff and friends for the lunch after the service. Also to Rev. John James and the Monk Funeral Home for their kind and courteous services. Ron Roberts and family 27-P-9

I wish to thank the ambulance attendants, nurses, Dr. Baxter, Dr. Abrahamse, Dr. Good and all friends and relatives who sent cards and took time to visit me and those who said prayers for me during my stay in Haliburton Hospital. Also to friends who kindly drove my wife to see me at the hospital. Thank you all! Morris Jones 27-P-9

THANK YOU

To the Seniors who were on the Stratford trip I say "Thank you" for your co-operation and your kindness. To Travelways, Fenlon Travel, our bus driver, Ross Mark and to Katherine, we all say thank you for a job well done. Darlene 27-P-9

Allen and family would like to thank the people of Fort Irwin for all their help and support since John's death. Special thanks to Ev and John Robertson who came to the rescue on more than one occasion. We look forward to seeing many of you at our new house in Haliburton. 27-CA-9

A very special thank you to my family, friends, neighbours and to Rev. Phillips for their kind and thoughtful wishes, prayers, gifts and visits during my recent illness. A special thank you to nursing staff at the local hospital, ambulance drivers Pat Kennedy and Larry Blanchard, Dr. H. Good and Dr. Steven Moore and nursing staff on the 2nd Floor of the Civic Hospital, Peterborough. Lloyd Coneybeare 27-P-9

I would like to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to my many friends and relatives for their flowers, phone calls and get well cards sent to me while I was a patient in our Haliburton hospital and also the Toronto Western.

I would like also to express my gratitude to all the members of the prayer chains of the different churches and to all individuals who prayed for my recovery.

A special thanks to Dr. Hayes, Dr. Stokes and the super nurses and staff who gave me such excellent care and thoughtful attention during the time I was in our hospital. Thanks also to Dr. Fleming and the staff of the Western hospital.

My gratitude to our excellent ambulance drivers. The kindness of everyone shown to me during my illness will be remembered. Shirley Jean Baker 27-P-9

The families of the late Ron Pearson would like to sincerely thank friends, relatives, Rev. Phillips, the doctors, nurses at Haliburton Hospital, employees at Extendercare and Gordon Monk for all the kindness they showed at the time of our loss. 27-CA-9

IN MEMORIAM

SAWYER, Clare - In loving memory of a dear grandfather, who passed away October 10, 1982.

We had a grandfather with a heart of gold, Who was more to us than wealth untold; Without farewell he fell asleep With only memories for us to keep.

Remembered always by Randy, Sherry, Scott, Laurie and Tim. 32-P-9

SAWYER, Clare - In loving memory of my Dad, who passed away October 10, 1982.

Sadly missed along life's way, Quietly remembered every day, No longer in my life to share, But in my heart, he's always there. Lovingly remembered by Deloris. 32-P-9

SAWYER, Clare - In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away October 10, 1982.

Alone, but never quite alone
I face an empty chair;
But sometimes in the silence
I imagine he is there,
My companion for so many years
No longer here with me,
And yet in some mysterious way
He keeps me company.

Sadly missed by wife Josephine. 32-P-9

SAWYER, Clare - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, who passed away October 10, 1982.

Though tears in our eyes do not glisten,
And our faces are not always sad,
There is never a night or morning
But we think of the father we had.
Not a day do we forget him
In our hearts he is always here
For we loved him and we miss him
As it ends another year.
Lovingly remembered by Devona, Al, and family. 32-P-9

Legion looks into its own past and poppy's history

By GERALD IRISH
Jerry Wilson and I were discussing the various names attached to the Legion since its inception. After some research, it was discovered that the Legion has actually had four names. In 1921, a small group of World War I Veterans formed the nucleus of what is now Canada's largest service club. This group was called The Great War Veterans' Association. In 1925 this group became affiliated with the British Empire Service League and was called The Canadian Legion of the British Empire

Service League. This title was kept until 1958 when the name was changed to Canadian Legion. In 1960, the Queen assented to the addition of "Royal" to the Canadian Legion's name. Remembrance Day is rapidly approaching and each year in the schools we get asked, "Why was the Poppy chosen as a symbol of Remembrance?" The following is a brief history of the Poppy as our symbol of Remembrance.

A writer first made the connection between the poppy and battlefield deaths during the Napoleonic wars of the early 19th century, remarking that fields that were barren before battle exploded with the blood-red flowers after the fighting ended.

Prior to the First World War few poppies grew in Flanders. During the tremendous bombardments of that war the chalk soils became rich in lime from rubble, allowing 'popover' rhoeas to thrive. When the war ended the lime was quickly absorbed, and the poppy began to disappear again.

Lt.-Col. John McCrae, the Canadian doctor who wrote the poem 'In Flanders Fields', made the same connection as the earlier writer in his Napoleonic wars, and the scarlet poppy quickly became the symbol for soldiers who died in battle.

Three years later an American, Moina Michael, was working in a New York City YMCA canteen when she started wearing a poppy in memory of the millions who died on the battlefield. During a 1920 visit to the United States a French woman, Madame Guerin, learned of the custom. On her return to France she decided to use handmade poppies to raise money for destitute children in war-torn areas of the country. In November 1921, the first poppies were distributed in Canada.

However, thanks to the millions of Canadians who wear flowers each November, the little red plant has never died. And neither have Canadians' memories for 114,000 of their countrymen who died in battle.

Enrolment in Legion-sponsored Cadets reached a total of 54 young men and women. We are still taking names of interested teens (13

- 18 inclusive). A lot of hard work has gone into getting this movement off the ground and much of the credit must go to Wayne Wood and his committee. If any teens are interested in becoming Cadets, drop into the Ashburnham Meat Market on the Main Street of Hali-burton and give your name to Mr. Wood.

The general meeting on October 3 marked the annual official visit of the Zone Commander Comrade Mel Robertson. Comrade Mel was very complimentary about the Branch and the work that is in progress. He commended the various chairpersons for their work and their reports to the membership. After the meeting a light lunch was served in the Club Room in honour of Comrade Mel's visit.

During the general meeting, the membership was given news which both elated and saddened them. Branch 129 Padre, Comrade Lloyd Johnson, announced that he had just recently been elected to the office of National President of the Postmasters' Union. This honour means that Lloyd and Helen will have to take up residence in Ottawa for a two-year period. Lloyd resigned as our Padre and we will miss his gentleness, his concern and the very capable way he has carried out his many, varied duties. Mixed with our sadness at Lloyd's leaving was an immense feeling of pride. We are proud of the fact that Lloyd has attained such a high position. Our best wishes go with Helen and Lloyd. We know they will return to visit often.

This coming Thanksgiving weekend, a number of Legion members and friends will be in Nashville. Activities in the Club Room will continue as usual. On Saturday, October 12 at 2 p.m. there will be a turkey, ham, steak roll. It's a wonderful chance for you to win your Thanksgiving dinner. Entertainment in the Club Room on the same date will be provided by Nora McClellan on piano. I hope you all have a happy Thanksgiving holiday.

ment. Interment took place on Saturday in Glamorgan cemetery.

Our genial postmistress, Mabel Hunter, spent a happy time last weekend in Burlington when she visited her son, Don, and his wife, Karen and her brand new grandson, Andrew Kenneth Ronald.

Bill and Doreen Kendall motored to Thunder Bay where they spent a pleasant time with their son and daughter-in-law, Robert and Judi, and their six-month-old grandson, Lian. They were impressed with the new Henlo gold strike - the largest in North America - just south of Marathon. This augurs well for employment in that area. On their return they ran into snow and also were excited to see a moose crossing the highway.

We have several sick folk in our community. Dan Dewey has just returned from hospital in Peterborough. Dale Parnell and our reeve Bob McCausland are still in Civic Hospital there. We hope for good news concerning them soon.

The men's baseball team invite everyone to a potluck dinner and dance (with a live band) at the Community Centre on Saturday evening, October 19. This winds up the baseball season for this year.

Eon, of Toronto. The sympathy of the community is extended to his family. Mr. Anderson was born in Scotland. He served in the Canadian Navy in both world wars and was a school teacher.

We congratulate Marilyn Mace on becoming a grandmother for the second time. Her son Robbie and his wife Lindsay became the parents of a baby girl, Jami Katrina, on September 26 at Huntsville Hospital. The new arrival weighed in at 8 lbs. 3 oz.

We had a small flock of ducks taking a respite on our dock the other day, just lazing in the sun, but they haven't returned. Could it be they decided to start south? If so they are missing the boat as we are sure to have a lot of nice weather before the cold weather sets in. Maybe the geese don't think so, a week ago a couple of gentlemen in the village saw a flock of the Canadian birds heading south. I wonder if they were trying to tell us something.

Last week was library week and to proclaim the occasion, Jean Greenaway, our local librarian, had a cookie tasting day for the school children. The kindergarten to grade four all trooped over and enjoyed cookies and juice and presented Jean with a book of cookie recipes which they had brought to school and their teacher had assembled into a book with a bristol board cover illustrated with animal cookie pictures.

October 5 at the Recreation Centre the A.A. hosted a district convention. Approximately 200 people attended this annual event from Stratford, Hamilton, Stoney Creek, Peterborough,

On Sunday afternoon our Anglican church was decorated most beautifully with fruit, vegetables and little jars of preserves for the annual Harvest Thanksgiving service.

THE CANADIAN JOBS STRATEGY. WORKING OPPORTUNITIES FOR PEOPLE.

It is clear that Canadians need more jobs and businesses want to develop and expand. That's why the Government of Canada, in co-operation with the provinces, territories and the private sector, has initiated a comprehensive new Canadian Jobs Strategy.

The Jobs Strategy is a fundamental change in the way we invest in our most important resource - the people of Canada. The built-in incentives of the strategy encourage employers to develop new jobs and establish training programs which will lead to skilled and lasting employment.

A COMPREHENSIVE STRATEGY TO CREATE SKILLED AND LASTING EMPLOYMENT.

Today's highly competitive and rapidly changing job marketplace has left many Canadians frustrated and unable to find satisfying and lasting employment. At the same time employers are often unable to hire people with the specific skills they need. The new Jobs Strategy now offers a flexible and comprehensive set of programs to bring together the needs of workers and employers and open up new working opportunities through training and on-the-job experience.

The Strategy is composed of six programs which are aimed at very specific and real difficulties being experienced by people looking for work in communities all over Canada. The programs assist people who have been displaced by technological changes in the workplace, young people looking for their first job, women re-entering the workforce, and individuals experiencing long-term unemployment. People who are having a hard time getting a suitable job will find programs in the Strategy to aid them in gaining skills which will make them more employable now and in the future.

SKILL INVESTMENT

To prepare and train Canadians for future jobs and to guard against their skills becoming obsolete due to technological change, the Skill Investment program will give employers and employees the chance to adapt to changing conditions which can threaten job security. The program encourages employers and employees to work together to develop training programs for their mutual benefit. The program is flexible enough to meet the needs of individual employees. Training courses may be taken on the job or at any training institution.

JOB ENTRY

The first job after school, or after a long absence from the workforce, is often the hardest to get. Job Entry will make it easier for young people to move from school to work and for women to re-enter the job market. This program will help break the vicious circle of "No job because you have no experience and no experience because you can't get a job." Practical training will be provided for up to one year through government support to individuals, employers and community groups. It will give individuals a solid base of marketable skills, by providing a combination of training and direct work experience.

JOB DEVELOPMENT

When some people are out of work for a long time, it is often because the skills they do have are not the skills that are needed out there in the job market. To help Canadians who are experiencing long-term unemployment, Job Development projects assist businesses and communities to provide training and practical work experience which will build up an individual's marketable skills and improve opportunities for lasting employment.

SKILL SHORTAGES

The Skill Shortages program will help employers develop skilled labour to increase productivity and competitiveness. To encourage employers to train Canadian workers in skills for which there are shortages, training assistance programs have been created.

The Government of Canada will cover many of the employer's direct costs for training in job categories in which work is available, but for which there are currently too few skilled Canadians.

INNOVATIONS

The Innovations program looks to the future of the Canadian workplace. It will act as a catalyst to tap the creative resources of the Canadian people and stimulate new initiatives for revitalizing Canada's labour market. Innovations provides financial assistance to individuals and groups who have pilot and demonstration projects which test new solutions to labour market problems. There are no pre-determined limits on projects, and proposals may address regional concerns, or issues which are national in scope.

COMMUNITY FUTURES

The Community Futures program will be developed to better understand, anticipate and respond to the impact of social and technological change in communities.

The program will address the real and pressing needs of communities by becoming involved in initiatives proposed from within the community itself. The particular strengths of a community can be the basis of its economic resilience, and the Community Futures program will build on these strengths by providing timely support and resources.
